THE CAMDEN SOCIETY

Was founded in the year 1838. It was suggested by the success attendant on the Surtees Society, which had been formed a few years before, to honour the memory of the much-esteemed Historian of Durham, by the publication of Documents illustrating the history of the North of England. The annual subscription to the Surtees Society was Two Guineas.* That to the Camden Society, which took a wider scope, and looked for more general support, was limited to One Pound. In the original prospectus its objects were announced as being, "to perpetuate, and render accessible, whatever is valuable, but at present little known, amongst the materials for the Civil, Ecclesiastical, or Literary History of the United Kingdom."

WILLIAM CAMDEN, the Elizabethan historian, the editor of some of the old chronicles, and the topographer of his native "Britannia," was chosen for its presiding genius.

By the popularity of this plan, and by the influential advocacy of several powerful friends (among whom the late Mr. Amyot, Treas. S.A., the late * Since altered, in 1850, to One Guinea; on which footing the Surtees Society is still well supported, and usefully employed.

Rev. Dr. Bliss, of Oxford, and Mr. Purton Cooper, Q.C., were especially active,) the Camden Society rapidly achieved a triumph beyond the hopes of its projectors. Its earliest work was promptly brought out by the late Mr. Bruce, who afterwards edited so many other and more elaborate volumes, to the credit and advantage of the Society, and whose counsel and conduct throughout its career, first in the office of Treasurer, and afterwards in that of Director, in all ways materially contributed to its success and its utility. Of that earliest book, 500 copies having been taken, a second impression was shortly required; and a thousand copies were printed of the other works of the first year. By the anniversary in 1839 the members were beginning to exceed the copies thus provided, and it was then determined to admit 1,200 Members, and to limit the Society to that maximum. This large number also was quickly attained, and there was besides a book of Candidates waiting for future vacancies.

The number printed of the Society's works continued to be 1,250 from No. V. to No. XLII. inclusive. It was then reduced to 1,000, and subsequently to 750, to 600, and to 500—so that the latter works of the Society are far less abundant than the preceding, and will hereafter be proportionately in greater request for the completion of sets.

The popularity of the Camden Society led the way to the formation of the Ælfrie, the Shakespeare, the Percy, the Parker, and several other Printing Societies, which it has now for many years survived. It possesses some guarantee for stability in a funded investment of more than £500 Three per Cent. Consols, derived from the Compositions paid in lieu of Annual Subscriptions.*

It has completed in its First Series, of which a description is given in the following pages, the number of one hundred and five volumes: some of them comprising two distinct articles, and the six volumes of the Camden Miscellany containing several.† Their character is so varied that the present account of them will be useful not only to those who possess the series, but also to the literary world at large. At the close of these remarks is appended such a classified list of the whole as will convey a just idea of the value of the literature which the Camden Society has thus been the means of producing. It will, however, be readily perceived that some of the works might be placed under more than one class.

* Of the £1,000 funded property which was possessed by the Society when this Catalogue was first printed, one half has been devoted to the expenses of a General Index to the First Series of the Society's Works (regarding which see further in p. ix.)

It may further be remarked that, during the career of this Society, several extraneous circumstances have arisen to influence the direction taken in its operations. The formation of the Percy and Shakespeare Societies, already mentioned, for a time withdrew from its attention certain classes of poetical and dramatic literature; and subsequently the production, upon a wide and comprehensive scale, of historical works under the direction of the Master of the Rolls, rendered it no longer necessary for the Camden Society to make inadequate efforts in a path for which its funds are but little calculated.* Upon this subject the Council issued the following observations in their Report of the year 1858:—

“In closing their Report, the Council beg to

* I have noticed, at pp. 5, 43, 55, three instances in which the gentlemen employed under the direction of the Master of the Rolls have followed in the steps of the Camden Society; and Rishanger's Chronicle of the Barons' Wars has since been edited by Henry Thomas Riley, Esq., M.A., in his Chronica Monasterii S. Albani. 1863—1867.

congratulate the Society on the important steps now taking by the Master of the Rolls (with the sanction of the Government) for the promotion of English Historical Literature, by the publication of Calendars of our State Papers and editions of our Early Chronicles. When this Society was instituted, all publication of historical materials at the expense of Government had been suspended. Nor was there any other channel open by which such valuable books as the Domesday of St. Paul's, and many others of this Society's works, could be made known. If the labours of this Society—imperfect substitute as they may have been—have partially supplied the void, or led the way to a state of things more creditable to us as a people conscious of the benefit of sound historical literature, the fact is one of which the Society may feel proud. Whilst those publications are in progress some portion of the original design of the Society will probably fall into partial abeyance. Such books as the Chronicles of Joscelin de Brakelond, Rishanger, and Peterborough, with the others before mentioned, will now find other channels of publication. But this is not a circumstance which will be in any degree detrimental to the Society. On the contrary, the limitation of our operations to Documents, Letters, Diaries, Poems, and other works not contemplated by the Master of the Rolls, will probably tend to advance the interest and popularity of the Society's publications, and will justify the Council in printing historical illustrations of a more recent date."

The editorial work of the Camden Society has been spontaneously undertaken by a succession of gentlemen and ladies, of all ranks and professions, (including a late President, Lord Braybrooke,) now amounting to nearly fifty in number, whose labours, generally performed with as much industry and judgment as zeal, have throughout been gratuitous—except that copies of their works * have always been allotted to them.

The order of the publication of the Books, corresponding with the numbers of this Catalogue, is denoted on the back of each title-page (except in a few of the early volumes).

THE CAMDEN SOCIETY has now entered upon the Second Series of its works, and has already delivered four volumes to its subscribers for the current year. In the Prospectus (of which copies may always be obtained on request) their description will be found.

New Members of the Society are admitted, without entrance-fee, at the monthly meetings of the Council.

* The number usually presented to Editors is twenty-five; and ten to the contributors of Manuscripts.

The Books, when completed, are delivered to Members only, and only after payment of the year's Subscription, or the equivalent Composition; but the surplus copies of such books of the First Series as are not out of print, are sold, singly, by the Society.*

A GENERAL INDEX to the Hundred and Five Volumes of the First Series has been for some time in preparation. It is being made by Mr. Henry Gough, who compiled the General Index to the publications of the Parker Society, and also, in conjunction with the Rev. W. D. Macray, that to Mr. Black's Catalogue of the Ashmolean Manuscripts.

From the scrupulously careful and laborious character of these, Mr. Gough's previous performances, and having regard to the multifarious contents of the works included in the Society's First Series of Works, it may be confidently anticipated that almost an encyclopedia, in outline, of English history and antiquities will be presented as the result of his present undertaking.

THE COUNCIL OF THE CAMDEN SOCIETY, having reason to believe that many gentlemen are deterred from becoming Members of the Society by the difficulty and expense of securing a complete set of the Society's publications, have determined to take advantage of the General Index now in course of preparation to close their first series with the works included in such Index, and to commence a fresh series.

The CAMDEN was the first Society established on the popular principle which has since been so widely adopted. It was instituted to perpetuate, and render accessible, whatever is valuable, but hitherto little known, amongst the materials for the Civil,

Ecclesiastical, or Literary History of the United Kingdom ; and it accomplishes that object by the publication of Historical Documents, Letters, Ancient Poems, and whatever else lies within the compass of its design, in the most convenient form, and at the least possible expense consistent with the production of useful volumes.

The services which the Society has rendered to Historical Literature by the publication of the one hundred and five volumes which have been issued by it, have been universally recognised.

It is hardly necessary to say that the ground now occupied by the Camden Society is totally distinct from that which of late years has been taken up by the series of Chronicles and Documents published under the superintendence of the Master of the Rolls. These publications are limited to a period ending with the reign of Henry the Seventh ; whereas the Camden Society, though it will still continue to make use of documents which, from their brevity, or from any other reason, are not suitable for the series of the Master of the Rolls, will find its principal work in the unpublished matter relating to the history of our country during the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries, which is of so varied and interesting a character. The Council, therefore, are anxious to appeal to all students of English History for that support without which it will be impossible for them to accomplish the work before them.

The books delivered for the year 1871-2, being the first year of the New Series, are—

1. Letters and Papers of John Shillingford, Mayor of Exeter, A.D. 1447—1450. Edited by STUART A. MOORE, Esq.
2. The Fortescue Papers, principally consisting of letters on State affairs, collected by John Packer, Secretary to George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham. Edited by SAMUEL RAWSON GARDINER, Esq.
3. The Cheque Book of the Chapel Royal from the Reign of Elizabeth to the Accession of the House of Hanover. Edited by Dr. RIMBAULT.
4. A true Relation of the Life and Death of the Right Rev. William Bedell, Bishop of Down. Edited by THOMAS WHARTON JONES, Esq. F.R.S.

I.

Historie of the Arrivall of Edward IV. in England, and the finall Recoverye of his Kingdomes from Henry VI., A.D. MCCCCLXXI. Edited by JOHN
BRUCE, Esq., F.S.A. 1838. Pp. xv. 52.

A more valuable authority for the events it describes than any previously published. The Editor reviews in his preface the other writers upon whom the history of the period depends, and shows which of them are followed by the chroniclers. He also shows that a narrative of these occurrences preserved at Ghent, and published in the 21st volume of the Archæologia, is but a slight abridgement from the present. Except by Mr. Sharon Turner, this had been used by no historian before its publication as the first work of the Camden Society. It was printed from a transcript of John Stowe, in the Harl. MS. 543; the original MS., which belonged to Fleetwood, the well-known recorder of London temp. Eliz., having been lost. So far as it was used in Holinshed, it was converted from a Yorkist into a Lancastrian story, in passing through the hands (as Mr. Bruce suggests) of Fleetwood and Abraham Fleming.

This earliest and very important work of the Camden Society was appropriated in 1845 by the anonymous compiler of a book entitled "The Chronicles of the White Rose of York,"—without asking the consent of the Editor, or the concurrence of the Society.

II.

Kynge Johan. A Play in two Parts. By JOHN BALE. Edited by J. PAYNE COLLIER, Esq., F.S.A., from the MS. of the Author in the Library of his Grace the Duke of Devonshire. 1838. Pp. xvi. 110.

From Bale's own testimony in his Scriptores it is ascertained that one of his twenty-two dramatic works, in idiomate materno, was De Joanne Anglorum rege. In further proof of the authorship of this play, one half of the MS. was found to be in Bale's own autograph, though his name was nowhere attached to it. When committed to Mr. Payne Collier for the use of the Camden Society, it had not long been in the Duke of Devonshire's library; and it was traced to the possession of the corporation of Ipswich, for which town Mr. Collier conjectures that it may have been originally written.*

III.

Alliterative Poem on the Deposition of King Richard II.

RICARDI MAYDISTON de Concordia inter Ric. II. et Civitatem London.

Edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A., F.S.A., of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1838. Pp. viii. 64.

The first of these is an exceedingly curious composition, written with all the satiric vigour of Piers Plowman,† and very probably by the same author. Only one MS. of it is known, which is in the Public Library at Cambridge (Il. 4. 14), immediately following a copy of the celebrated poem already named. Though difficult to understand on first reading, it will be found to reward a prolonged study; and, in addition to the Editor's notes and glossary, the reader may derive further assistance from articles in the Gentleman's Magazine for October 1838 and March 1849.

* Some curious portions of one of the rarest of Bale's tracts, "An expostulacion or complaynte agaynst the blasphemys of a frantieke papyst of Hamshyre," are printed in "Narratives of the Days of the Reformation" (Camden Society, 1859), pp. 315, et seq. Among the rest, at p. 318, a passage that shows that his "comedies" were really enacted in Hampshire; as, in his "Vocaeyon," he states they were in Kilkenny.

† Mr. Wright has been the editor of two impressions of the "Visions of Piers Plowman," published in 1842 and 1856.

The second article printed in this volume is from one of the Digby manuscripts in the Bodleian Library. Its author was a doctor in theology, in great repute at court, and famous for his writings in divinity. His Latin poem, in elegiac verse, describes the reception of Richard the Second into London in 1393, with the pageantry and speeches, which are almost as fully if not so poetically described in the chronicles of Hall and Holinshed, and the doggrels of Lydgate.

Both these Poems have been re-edited by Mr. Wright in his collection of "Political Poems and Songs relating to English History, vol. i. 1859," published under the direction of the Master of the Rolls.

IV.

Plumpton Correspondence. A Series of Letters, chiefly Domestick, written in the reigns of Edward IV. Richard III. Henry VII. and Henry VIII. Edited by THOMAS STAPLETON, Esq., F.S.A., from Sir Edward Plumpton's Book of Letters; with Notices historical and biographical of the family of Plumpton of Plumpton, com. Ebor. 1839. Pp. cxxxviii. 312, and a sheet pedigree.

In antiquity and extent this family correspondence is only inferior to the celebrated Paston Letters. It is printed, not from the original letters, which are no longer in existence, but from a volume transcribed by Sir Edward Plunkton, who lived from 1581 to 1654; containing three distinct series: 1. the correspondence of Sir William Plunkton, who died 1480; 2. of his son Sir Robert, who died 1523; and 3. of other members of his family down to the reign of Edward VI. This arrangement Mr. Stapleton has maintained. The MS. (which has been partly copied by Dodsworth, and from his collections partially published by Sir Henry Ellis and others,) was discovered in the library of Peregrine Edward Towneley, Esq.; and from the Cartulary or Coucher Book of Sir Edward Plunkton, remaining in the same custody, Mr. Stapleton has derived the deeds and evidences of the family, which form the chief materials for his very circumstantial introductory memoir.

V.

Anecdotes and Traditions, illustrative of Early English History and Literature, derived from MS. sources. Edited by WILLIAM J. THOMS, Esq., F.S.A. 1839. Pp. xxviii. 134.

The materials of this volume are derived from three sources amidst the MSS. of the British Museum:—

1. "Merry Passages and Jests," compiled by Sir NICHOLAS LE-STRANGE, of Hunstanton, co. Norfolk, the Harl. MS. 6395. (pp.1-79.)

2. "Remains of Gentilism and Judaism," by the well-known JOHN AUBREY,* the Lansdowne MS. 231. "Many interesting passages from this manuscript have been transferred by Sir Henry Ellis to his edition of Brand's Popular Antiquities; these, with one exception, that of the Funeral Dirge, have been omitted in the present work; but, combined with those here printed, may be said to comprise everything deserving of publication contained in the volume." (pp. 80-116.)

* Some further particulars of this MS. work will be found at p. 113 of the "Memoir of John Aubrey, F.R.S." by John Britton, F.S.A. 1845, 4to. published by the Wiltshire Topographical Society.

3. The Commonplace book of Mr. JOHN COLLET (born 1633), the Addit. MS. 3890. (pp. 117-126.)

"Notices of Sir Nicholas Lestrangle, Bart., and his family connexions. Communicated by J. G. NICHOLS, Esq. F.S.A." occupy the introductory pages xi.-xxviii. Sir Nicholas was the elder brother of Hamon Lestrangle, author of "The Reign of King Charles, 1655," folio, and of Sir Roger Lestrangle, the voluminous essayist and political pamphleteer.

VI.

The Political Songs of England, from the reign of John to that of Edward II. Edited and translated by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A., F.S.A., of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1839. Pp. xviii. 408.

These poetical expressions of triumph, or of satire, are contemporary with the events to which they relate, and are consequently remarkable records of popular language, as well as popular sentiment. Some are in Norman-French, others in Latin, and others in semi-Saxon English. In an Appendix are considerable extracts from the metrical chronicle of Peter Langtoft, in Norman-French, previously inedited.

In the series of Historical Works, now proceeding under the direction of the Master of the Rolls, Mr Wright has edited a volume of "Political Poems and Songs relating to English History, composed during the period from the accession of Edward III. to that of Richard III. 1859;" which series (commencing where that printed for the Camden Society leaves off) is to be further continued.

Annals of the first Four Years of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, by Sir JOHN HAYWARD, Knt., D.C.L. Edited from a MS. in the Harleian Collection, by JOHN BRUCE, Esq., F.S.A. 1840. Pp 1.116.

Camden and Hayward were in their lives united as the joint historiographers of King James's College at Chelsea. "Whilst Camden was setting forth, in pure and simple Latin, his admirable Britannia and his Annales, and was placing before the world some of the most valuable of the foundations of English History in his collection of Chronicles, Hayward was composing, in our own language, works which, notwithstanding their many defects, were of a higher character, and approached more nearly to a better description of historical writing, than any which had then been published." (p. viii.) Hayward published in his lifetime a history of the First Year of Henry the Fourth (1599), and the Lives of the first Three Norman Kings (1613), and left as a posthumous work his Life and Reign of Edward the Sixth, published in 1630, and again in 1636 accompanied "with the beginning of the Raigne of Queene Elizabeth," being a portion of the present work, the remainder of which remained unnoticed in the Harleian MS. 6021, until detected by Mr. Bruce. A very careful examination of Hayward's personal history, as well as his career as a historian, is contained in the Introduction.

Ecclesiastical Documents: viz.

- I. A brief History of the Bishoprick of Somerset from its Foundation to the year 1174.
- II. Charters from the Library of Dr. Cox Macro. Now first published by the Rev. JOSEPH HUNTER, F.S.A. 1840. Pp. ix. 100.

The Editor offered the two portions of this volume together, as either would alone have been too small for a book: their only connexion being, that both belonged to affairs of the early English Church.

I. The Historiola de Primordiis Episcopatus Somersetensis is in Latin, probably composed by a canon of Wells, in the reign of Henry II., but containing a long quotation from a treatise written by bishop Gyso, who flourished under the Confessor and the Conqueror. Mr. Hunter has appended a translation, and copious annotations.

II. The Charters relating to Ecclesiastical Affairs are of like character to those collected in Dugdale's Monasticon. They are twenty-one in number, belong to various counties, and are arranged chronologically from the Norman times to that of Henry VIII. Their contents are entirely new to our monastic and local history. Mr. Hunter introduces them with some account of the Manuscript Collections of the Rev. Cox Macro, D.D., who died in 1767.

Speculi Britanniae Pars: an historical and geographical Description of the County of Essex, by JOHN NORDEN, 1594. Edited, from the original manuscript in the Marquess of Salisbury's library at Hatfield, by Sir HENRY ELLIS. 1810. Introductory pages xliv.; text 42.

John Norden was a surveyor patronised by Lord Burghley. It is doubtful whether a contemporary "John Norden," the author of many religious books, was the same individual or no. Sir Henry Ellis in the introduction to the present volume has collected much interesting information respecting the works of the surveyor, whether printed or still in manuscript. He appears to have designed to compile a survey of the whole of England in counties, of which the following are in existence:—

1. Cornwall: published in 1728. 4to.
  2. Essex: contained in the volume before us.
  3. Hertfordshire: published in 1598, 4to; reprinted in 1637 and 1723.
  4. Middlesex: published in 1593, 4to; reprinted in 1637, and in 1723. To this Sir Henry Ellis (in his Introduction, pp. xi-xviii.) gives some MS. additions from Norden's autograph in the Harleian MS. 570.
  5. Northamptonshire: published in 1720, 8vo.
  6. Surrey: said to have been sold into Holland. (Gough's British Topography, 1780, p. 261.)
- They are all described by Sir Henry Ellis.

A Chronicle of the First Thirteen Years of the reign of King Edward the Fourth, by JOHN WARKWORTH, D.D., Master of St. Peter's College, Cambridge. Edited, from the MS. now in the library of St. Peter's College, by JAMES ORCHARD HALLIWELL, Esq., F.R.S., F.S.A., of Jesus College, Cambridge, &c. 1839. Pp. xxvii. 70.

This is a brief but valuable historical fragment, written by way of continuation to a copy of the Brut Chronicle. It was bequeathed by Dr. Warkworth to his college, and its composition attributed to him by Leland, whose abstracts from it are printed in his Collectanea. It is not however in Warkworth's handwriting, as Mr. Halliwell ascertained (p. xxiii.), and in reality there is no evidence of authorship to be found, though Mr. Halliwell has persevered in attributing it to Warkworth.

The anonymous Editor of "The Chronicles of the White Rose of York" (already mentioned under No. 1.) has reprinted Warkworth's Chronicle, taking credit for modernising its "obsolete orthography," but he has done so without properly understanding it, as, for example, at p. 114 of his book, "hire-ships" for their ships; p. 115,

"to rejoyce (in)" for to re-enjoy; in p. 126, "King being in the forward"—or front of the army, is explained as "in sure ward;" and in 108 the "law padowe," or lex Padur, is converted into "pothor!"

In another passage, in the same page 108, which relates to the capture of King Henry in Lancashire, occur the words (as there printed) "with others more, which deceived; being at his dinner at Waddington Hall," &c. The reading in the Camden Society's book being, "withe other moo; whiche disseyvide,—beyngne at his dynere at Wadyngton Halle"; but the writer's real expression was evidently discryvide, and the modern English is, "who discovered him (the King) whilst at his dinner," &c. At p. 16 of the Society's book, line 15, for profytely read perfytely.

The following articles in the Gentleman's Magazine may be consulted with respect to this period of English history:—

Dec. 1839, p. 614. Review of Warkworth's Chronicle.

Jan. 1840, p. 38. Marriage of Edward IV. at Grafton.

Nov. 1840, p. 489. Picture of Sir John Donne and his wife.

Oct. 1844, p. 376. The battle of Barnet.

Feb. 1845, p. 144. Settlement of the Crown in 1460 and in 1470.

June 1845, p. 593. The battle of Banbury, in 1469.

See also in the Archaeologia, vol. xxix. pp. 127-138, "Observations upon certain events in England during the reign of King Edward the Fourth," by Mr. Halliwell, the Editor of Warkworth's Chronicle.

KEMP's Nine Daies Wonder: performed in a Daunce from London to Norwich. With an Introduction and Notes by the Rev. ALEXANDER DYCE. 1810. Pp. xxvi. 35.

This is a reprint of a very scarce printed Tract, of which the old title is as follows:

"Kemps nine daies vvender. Performed in a daunce from London to Norwich. Containing the pleasure, paines, and kinde entertainement of WILLIAM KEMP betweene London and that Citty in his late Morrice. Wherein is somewhat set downe worth note; to reprove the slaunders spred of him: many things merry, nothing hurtfull. Written by himselfe to satisfie his friends. London, Printed by E. A. for Nicholas Ling, and are to be solde at his shop at the west doore of Sainte Paules Church, 1600." (With a woodcut representing Kemp dancing his morris, his legs covered with small bells, and Thomas Slye, his attendant, walking before him with pipe and tabor )

William Kemp was the original actor of some of Shakespeare's characters, and a comedian of high reputation. Like Tarlton, whom he succeeded "as well in the favour of her Majesty as in the opinion and good thoughts of the generall audience," (Heywood's Apology for Actors,) he usually played the Clown, and was greatly applauded for his buffoonery, his extemporal wit, and his performance of the Jig.*

Kemp's famous morrice-dance to Norwich was performed in the spring of 1599,† and Ben Jonson alludes to it in his "Every Man in his Humour," which was produced that same year. There are frequent references to it by other dramatic and occasional writers, and the Editor in his Introduction has assembled a large number of such passages, as well as examined critically the various works which have been (falsely) attributed to the same author. Mr. Dyce's notes also abound with curious remarks. Warton admired so much some poetical lines which are introduced to describe the jovial inn-keeper at Rockland in Essex, that he thought they could not have been written by Kemp, but were most probably contributed by his friend and fellow-player Shakespeare; and Gifford, the editor of Ben Jonson, declared this little book to be "a great curiosity, and, as a rude picture of national manners, extremely well worth reprinting."

* "As no piece of that kind is extant, we are unable to ascertain its nature with precision; but it appears to have been a ludicrous metrical composition, either spoken or sung by the Clown, and occasionally accompanied by dancing and playing on the pipe and tabor." Introduction, p. xx.

† The proverbial expression of a Nine Days' Wonder is traced back more than half a century before Kemp's performance: see Notes and Queries, Second Series, xi. 249, 297, 478. It was scarcely applied with strict truth to Kemp's journey, for his nine days of dancing were not consecutive, and, including his intervening rests (one of which was for five days at Bury), it occupied altogether twenty-four days.

It is therefore surprising that it should not have been before reprinted; but it seems that only one copy of the original edition is known to exist; it is in the Bodleian Library, and was by Blomefield, the historian of Norfolk, mistaken for a manuscript.

Kemp's book is dedicated to "mistris Anne Fitton," one of the Queen's maids of honour: which name of Anne puzzled Mr. Dyce, as he found that Mary daughter of Sir Edward Fitton (some time President of Munster) was described as "maid of honour to Queen Elizabeth" in Ormerod's History of Cheshire, vol. iii. p. 293. It has been ascertained however that Mary's elder sister Anne (whose name is misprinted Alice in Mr. Ormerod's pedigree) was also a maid of honour, and afterwards wife of Sir John Newdigate, of Harefield, Middlesex. (Gentleman's Magazine, May 1840, p. 510.)

The Egerton Papers. A Collection of Public and Private Documents, chiefly illustrative of the times of Elizabeth and James I., from the original manuscripts, the property of the Right Hon. Lord Francis Egerton, M.P., President of the Camden Society. Edited by J. PAYNE COLLIER, Esq., F.S.A. 1840. Pp. viii. 509.

This very miscellaneous volume is a selection from the papers of lord chancellor Egerton, preserved at Bridgewater House. "Personal and family matters, unless connected with some public event," were reserved by the Editor, with a view to "a separate Life of Lord Ellesmere" (p. vi.)—which has not been published because the chief materials were communicated to the late Lord Campbell for his Lives of the Chancellors. Other documents from the same source, connected with dramatic history, have been published by Mr. Collier in his works relating to Shakespeare. This volume is illustrated with many facsimiles of autographs, which were engraved at Lord Francis Egerton's expense.

Chronica JOCELINI DE BRAKELONDA, de rebus gestis
Samsonis Abbatis Monasterii Sancti Edmundi.
Nunc primum typis mandata, curante JOHANNE
GAGE ROKEWODE. 1840. Pp. xi. 171.

This chronicle comprehends the annals of the monastery of St. Edmund from 1173 to 1202. The early pages give a rapid sketch of its state under abbot Hugh, intended as an introduction to the history of Samson de Totingham his successor in 1182. Jocelin de Brakelond the author, who derived his name from one of the ancient streets of St. Edmund's Bury, was chaplain to abbot Samson, and almoner of the abbey. His story (remarks the Editor) is told throughout with a pleasing naïveté, and sometimes humour; the characters are drawn with spirit, and the whole seems written with truth.* As a picture of the internal economy of a large monastery it is perhaps unrivalled. An English translation, made by Mr. T. E. Tomlins, Editor of Littleton's Tenures, &c., was published in 1844, under the title "Monastic and Social Life in the Twelfth Century." The original is part of the Liber Albus of the abbey, now the Harleian MS. 1005.

Narratives illustrative of the Contests in Ireland in 1641 and 1690. Edited by THOMAS CROFTON
CROKER. 1841. Pp. xiv. 149.

This volume consists of two distinct articles:—

1. The Siege of Ballyally Castle, in the county of Clare, in 1641. By MAURICE CUFFE, Esq., of Ennis; great-grandfather of John Cuffe, who was created Baron Desart in 1733. This occupies only 23 pages.

* An episode, being an account of the duel fought in 1163 between Henry of Essex and Robert de Montford, the former of whom, being accused of treason whilst acting as the King's standard-bearer in Wales, was vanquished, and became a monk of Reading, is written by a different hand, and in a more ambitious style.

2. Macariæ Excidium, or the Destruction of Cyprus; describing, under disguised names, the struggle between James II. and William III. in Ireland in the year 1690. Its author was Colonel CHARLES KELLY, a partisan of the former; and the MS. had been for several years in Mr. Crofton Croker's possession.

Soon after its publication, the same composition was published by the Irish Archaeological Society from a MS. in Trinity College, Dublin, translated from the original Latin by Denis Henry Kelly, Esq. of Castle Kelly, a descendant of the author, and illustrated with notes by John O'Callaghan, Esq.

The Chronicle of WILLIAM DE RISHANGER, of the Barons' Wars.

The Miracles of Simon de Montfort.

Edited from Manuscripts in the Cottonian Library,
by JAMES ORCHARD HALLIWELL, Esq., F.R.S., F.S.A., F.R.A.S., M.R.S.L., Secretary of the Cambridge Antiquarian Society, &c. &c. &c.
1840. Pp. xlii. 162.

Rishanger was the continuator of the Great Chronicle of St. Alban's, it is said from the time when its former compiler Matthew Paris had been removed by death in the year 1259.* Mr. Halliwell describes in his preface seven distinct historical works by Rishanger. That here edited is De bellis Lewes et Evesham, preserved in the Cotton MS. Claudius D. vi. It is the only known copy, and very full of clerical errors; some of which presented insuperable difficulties to the Editor. It is therefore very desirable that another copy should be discovered.

* Mr. Halliwell inadvertently states in p. v. that Rishanger was appointed historiographer to King Henry II. in 1259; but, immediately after, he shows by an autograph memorandum of Rishanger himself (of which a lithographic facsimile accompanies this volume), that he was only sixty-two in 1312.

A poetical chronicle of the same period, in the MS. Cotton. Otho D. viii., is introduced by Mr. Halliwell into his notes.

The second part of the volume, pp. 67-110, contains the Miracula Simonis de Montfort, from the MS. Cotton. Vespasian A. vi. These miracles are altogether different from some others ascribed to Montfort, related in the Chronicle of Mailros, pp. 232-239.

XVI.

The Latin Poems commonly attributed to WALTER MAPES; collected and edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq. M.A., F.S.A., &c. 1841. Pp. xlix. 371.

The contents of this work are divided into the following classes:—

I. Poems bearing the name of Goliath (22 pieces).

II. Other Poems attributed to Walter Mapes (21 pieces).

III. Poems of a similar character, but not directly attributed to Walter Mapes (8 pieces).

The above are all in Latin; and they are followed by an Appendix of Translations and Imitations, in English, and French, with a single piece in Spanish, another in Anglo-Norman, and another in Scottish.

The Introduction contains a memoir of Mapes, followed by an appendix of illustrative documents. After an able critical review of the collection, the Editor remarks (p. xx.), "On the whole it appears that we have little reason for attributing to Walter Mapes the greater portion of the poetry published in the present volume." (See the treatise of Walter Mapes De Nugis Curialium, hereafter, No. I.)

XVII.

The Second Book of the Travels of NICANDER NUCIUS, of Corcyra. Edited from the original Greek MS. in the Bodleian Library, with an English Translation, by the Rev. J. A. CRAMER, D.D., Principal of New Inn Hall, and Public Orator in the University of Oxford. 1841. Pp. xxvii. 126.

This work was really executed by the Rev. ISAAC FIDLER, of New Inn Hall, who transcribed the text, made the translation, supplied the notes, and prepared the index: the Introduction alone being put forth by Dr. Cramer as his own production.

The book describes England as it appeared to a Greek traveller towards the end of the reign of Henry VIII. It is a portion only of the original work; which contains also the travels of the writer in Germany and other countries. The MS. in the Bodleian Library, which formerly belonged to Archbishop Laud, has been mutilated. Dr. Cramer heard of a more perfect copy in the Ambrosian Library at Milan, but was refused a transcript, because an intention of publication was entertained by one of the officers of that institution. That intention has not yet been performed.

Three Early English Metrical Romances. With an Introduction and Glossary. Edited from a MS. in the possession of J. I. Blackburne, Esq., M.P., by JOHN ROBSON, Esq. 1842. Pp. xlv. 132.

These romances are:—

1. The Anturs (i.e. Adventures) of Arther at the Tarnewathelan.*
2. Sir Amadace.
3. The Avowynge of King Arther, Sir Gawan, Sir Kaye, and Sir Bawdewyn of Bretan.

They are written in the North-Western dialect of Lancashire.† It is characterized especially by the termination of the past tenses and participles in -ud or -ut, and the plural of nouns in us, peculiarities which distinguish the Ireland MS. (now belonging to Mr. Blackburne) from Weber's copy of Sir Amadas, and from the two MSS. of Sir Gawan collated by Sir Frederic Madden.

* See the Thornton Romances (Camden Society, 1844), p. xxix.

† The dialect of the South-Eastern district is well known by Tim Bobbin's works.

The Glossary "is, in the most important parts, a literal copy of Sir Frederic Madden's most excellent one to Sir Gawyne." (Edited for the Baunatyne Club, 1839.)

The Ireland MS. is in quarto, written on a coarse parchment, the same that is described, but very imperfectly, in Gregson's Fragments of the History of Lancashire.

A corrected copy of the letter of Petrarch to Boccaccio quoted in p. viii. of the Introduction, is given in the Gentleman's Magazine for June 1842, p. 593.

The Private Diary of Dr. JOHN DEE, and the Catalogue of his Library of Manuscripts; from the original manuscripts in the Ashmolean Museum at Oxford, and Trinity College Library, Cambridge. Edited by JAMES ORCHARD HALLIWELL, Esq., F.R.S., Hon. M.R.I.A., &c. &c. 1842. Pp. viii. 102.

Dr. Dee's Diary is gathered from the margins of old Almanacs preserved in the library of the Ashmolean Museum. In addition to some genealogical notes of earlier date, it extends from the year 1577 to 1601. Besides his personal adventures, it is curious from the intercourse which this somewhat charlatanical philosopher had with many of the most eminent persons in the court of Queen Elizabeth. Not the least remarkable passages are those describing his frequent interviews with the Queen herself.

The Catalogue of his library of manuscripts exists in his own autograph both at Trinity college, Cambridge, and in the Harl. MS. 1879. It is transcribed by Ashmole in Ashm. MS. 1142. Although the collection has been long since dispersed, "the Catalogue (remarks Mr. Halliwell,) is valuable for the notices which it preserves of several middle-age treatises not now extant. He is said to have expended on this collection the sum of 3000*l*."

Mr. Halliwell shortly after undertook to edit for the Camden Society A Selection from the Papers of Dr. Simon Forman, another astrological philosopher and the contemporary of Dee, which are also preserved among Ashmole's MSS.; but, after 40 pages had been put into type, it was thought advisable to suppress that work, as revealing too freely its writer's frailties. An edition of 100 copies was "Privately printed," but subsequently sold by Mr. Russell Smith.

An Apology for Lollard Doctrines, attributed to WICLIFFE. Now first printed from a Manuscript in the library of Trinity College, Dublin. With an Introduction and Notes, by JAMES HENTHORN TODD, D.D., V.P.R.I.A., Fellow of Trinity College, and Treasurer of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin. 1842. Pp. lxxiii. 206.

This treatise is the xxvith article in a volume which once belonged to archbishop Usher; the whole of the contents of which (in number xxix) are described by the Editor in his Introduction. It is the same volume which was also described in the British Magazine (in a series of papers upon the MSS. of Wicliffe in the library of the university of Dublin), vol. xiv. p. 275. The editor's notes to this treatise occupy pp. 115-188, and are followed by a glossary.

Rutland Papers. Original Documents illustrative of the Courts and Times of Henry VII. and Henry VIII. selected from the private archives of his Grace the Duke of Rutland. By WILLIAM JERDAN, F.S.A., M.R.S.L., Corresponding Member of the Real Academia de la Historia of Spain, &c. &c. &c. 1842. Pp. xii. 133.

These papers consist of a device for the Coronation of Henry VII., the livery of Garter at Abbeville on the marriage of Louis XII., papers relating to the Field of Cloth of Gold,* the meeting of Henry VIII. and the Emperor Charles V. at Gravelines, the visit of Charles V. to England in 1522; documents relating to the Household of Henry VIII.; and claims at the Coronation of Queen Mary.

The Diary of Dr. THOMAS CARTWRIGHT, Bishop of Chester; commencing at the time of his elevation to that see, August 1686; and terminating with the Visitation of St. Mary Magdalene College, Oxford, October 1687. Now first printed from the original MS. in the possession of the Rev. JOSEPH HUNTER, F.S.A. 1843. Pp. xviii. 110.

Little if any explanation seems necessary in addition to this exact, though brief, titlepage. Bishop Cartwright is chiefly remembered for his pliant conformity to the political, if not to the religious, principles of James the Second, and for the odious character given him by bishop Burnet.*

The MS. is described by the editor as a small octavo, bound in black leather; but its history was not traced further than that it contained the book-plate of George Watkin, B.D., of Lincoln College, Oxford; and that it had been in the hands of a bookseller at Northampton about fourteen years before it came into the possession of Mr. Hunter.

Original Letters of Eminent Literary Men of the Sixteenth, Seventeenth, and Eighteenth Centuries. With Notes and Illustrations by Sir HENRY ELLIS, K.H., F.R.S., Secretary of the Society of Antiquaries, and Principal Librarian of the British Museum. 1813. Pp. vii. 460.

The Editor first intended to confine this collection to the letters of Camden and his learned friends; but he afterwards extended his design and brought it so low in date as the letters of the Abbé Mann to Sir Joseph Banks. In connection with Camden's letters Sir Henry Ellis has given the bibliographical history of his "Britannia." Many letters are inserted addressed to Sir Robert Cotton; others from the correspondence of Wheloc, Sir Symonds D'Ewes, Strype, Ray, &c. &c. Among those of earlier date are letters from Udall, Cheke, Bernard Gilpin, Ascham, Nowell, Dee, Stubbes, Ocland, Bodley, Speed, and Usher; in later times specimens from Tillotson, Wanley, Prior, Hickeys, De Foe, Tanner, Swift, Steele, Ockley, Hearne, Nathaniel Lardner, the Earl of Macclesfield, Richard Cumberland, Dr. Franklin, and other celebrated men.

A contemporary Narrative of the Proceedings against Dame Alice Kyteler, prosecuted for Sorcery in 1324, by Richard de Ledrede, Bishop of Ossory. Edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A., F.S.A., &c. 1843. Pp. xlii. 61.

The text of this volume, which is in Latin, is printed from the Harleian MS. 641. Mr. Wright's introduction contains many curious materials in illustration of ancient superstitions with respect to sorcery: but he has subsequently republished them in a still more popular form, in his "Narratives of Sorcery and Magic, 1851," 2 vols. 8vo.

Promptorium Parvulorum sive Clericorum, Lexicon Anglo-Latinum Princeps, auctore fratre GALFRIDO GRAMMATICO dicto, e Predicatoribus Lenne Episcopi, Northfolciensi, A.D. circa M.CCCC.XL. Olim e prelo Pynsoniano typis mandatum; nunc primum, commentariolis subjectis, ad fidem codicum recensuit ALBERTUS WAY.

Tomus Prior, 1843. Pp. xi. 318 [A—L.]

Tomus Alter, 1853. Pp. 319-439 [M—R inclusive.]

This edition of our first English-Latin dictionary is formed upon the text of the Harleian MS. 221, that being the most ancient, the most correct, and the most copious known to the Editor. Numerous various readings and additions are given from other MSS. and from Pynson's edition; the authorities for which are denoted by initials: but perhaps the most valuable portion of the work consists in the ample illustrations and examples collected in the Editor's notes. Among the numerous contemporary authorities from which illustrations were largely drawn were some MSS. of the Latin-English Dictionary entitled the Medulla Grammatices, and afterwards the Ortus Vocabulorum, which is attributed to the same author as the Promptorium Parvulorum.

Prefixed are fac-similes from the MS. at King's College, Cambridge, No. 8, and that in Sir Thomas Phillipps's collection No. 8306, being Heber's MS. 1360.

The work was interrupted by Mr. Way's ill-health and other occupations: it is much to be regretted that it should not be completed, either by his own hands, or under his direction and superintendence.

Three Chapters of Letters relating to the Suppression of Monasteries. Edited from the originals in the British Museum by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A., F.S.A., &c. Corresponding Member of the Royal Institute of France (Academie des Inscriptions et Belles Lettres). 1843. Pp. xvi. 304.

The letters and documents in this volume are altogether in number 142. The three chapters into which the Editor has arranged them relate to:—1. The period previous to the passing of the Act for the suppression of the Smaller Monasteries; 2. From the Dissolution of the Smaller Houses to the passing of the Act for the Dissolution of the Larger Monasteries (commencing at p. 116); 3. The final suppression of the Monastic Houses and Confiscation of their property (p. 253). The originals of these letters and documents are chiefly preserved in the Cottonian MS. Cleopatra E. iv., having been probably selected at some early period from the Cromwell Papers now lodged at the State Paper Office.

Many single letters had been printed by bishop Burnet, and in topographical and other works. Mr. Wright added to these a few documents taken from other collections in the British Museum, especially from the Scudamore papers, a recent acquisition.

Since the publication of Mr. Wright's book other letters of the same class, derived directly from the Cromwell Papers, have been edited by Sir Henry Ellis in the Third Series of his Original Letters, 1846; and by Mary Anne Everett Wood (now Mrs. Green), in her collection of the Letters of Royal and Illustrious Ladies of Great Britain, published in the same year.

Correspondence of Robert Dudley, Earl of Leycester, during his Government of the Low Countries, in the years 1585 and 1586. Edited by JOHN BRUCE, Esq., F.S.A., Treasurer of the Camden Society. 1844. Pp. l. 496.

This large and important volume is derived partly from a MS. placed at the disposal of the Camden Society by Frederic Ouvry, esquire, and partly from original letters contained in various volumes at the British Museum. Mr. Ouvry's MS. formerly belonged to Henry Powle, esquire, of Shottesbrooke, speaker of the House of Commons and master of the rolls in the reign of William III.

Mr. Bruce in his Introduction has developed in a masterly manner the historical value of the documents here printed.

The French Chronicle of London. Croniques de London, depuis l'an 44 Hen. III. jusqu'à l'an 17 Edw. III. Edited, from a MS. in the Cottonian Library, by GEORGE JAMES AUNGIER. 1844. Pp. xxi. 112.

This is the only known London chronicle in the French language, and is on that account distinguished as the French chronicle. Of other London chronicles see the account under No. LIII. hereafter.

The Editor has very amply illustrated, chiefly from other MSS. in the British Museum (of which he gives an account in the Preface,) the several subjects noticed in this chronicle; together with the genealogies of the mayors and sheriffs who flourished during the period. In the Appendix is printed (from the Cottonian MS. Caligula A. xviii.) a French poem on the Execution of Sir Thomas de Turberville in 1295, supposed to have been written by the author of the poem on the Siege of Carlaverock, which was edited by Sir Harris Nicolas, 1828, 4to.

XXIX.

Three Books of POLYDORE VERGIL's English History, comprising the Reigns of Henry VI., Edward IV., and Richard III. from an early Translation preserved among the MSS. of the old Royal Library in the British Museum. Edited by Sir HENRY ELLIS, K.H. 1844. Pp. xxxix. 244.

"Polydore's History during the reigns which form the present volume is indispensable to fill a chasm of near seventy years in the dark period to which they bear relation; and it is important to know that he wrote this portion of his work whilst many of the persons alluded to in the events of the reigns of Edward the Fourth and Richard the Third were alive, and who communicated with him (see pp. 185, 209)." Preface, p. xxxii.

"The compilation of Polydore Vergil's History occupied the labour of twenty-eight years before it was presented to King Henry the Eighth. It was the first of our histories in which the writer ventured to compare the facts and weigh the statements of his predecessors; and it was the first in which summaries of personal character are introduced in the terse and energetic form adopted in the Roman classics. In choice of expression, and in the purity of Latin style, Polydore Vergil exceeded all his contemporaries: and the numerous editions of his work in the sixteenth century sufficiently shew the estimation in which his contemporaries held him. Locked away in a language unknown to the common reader, his History has suffered disparagement in later times." (P. xxviii.)

With this high valuation of an English history of which no English translation had been published, the Editor joined an equal appreciation of the old version which he had discovered in the British Museum (MS. Reg. C. VIII. IX.): "The Translation is free, and of a thorough English character, evidently made by a person powerfully acquainted with the language into which he rendered his author, and well versed in the colloquial phrases of the period. Who he was we have yet to learn; but this must be said, that in elegance of expression he rivals his author. As a specimen of language alone the whole Work is worthy of publication."

Sir Henry Ellis assigns this Translation to "a hand of the latter part of the reign of Henry the Eighth." It had been transcribed to the end of the reign of Henry VI. The two next reigns are in a coarser hand, with numerous interlineations and corrections. Those of Henry VII. and Henry VIII. were left untranslated.

The Editor in his Preface has collected many documents in illustration of the biography of Polydore Vergil; with a series of extracts from his detractors, as well as all the opinions that have been given in his favour. (See No. XXXVI)

The Thornton Romances. The Early English Metrical Romances of Perceval, Isumbras, Eglamour, and Degravant. Selected from Manuscripts at Lincoln and Cambridge. Edited by JAMES ORCHARD HALLIWELL, Esq., F.R.S., Hon. M.I.A., Hon. M.R.S.L., F.S.A., &c. Corresponding member of the Comité des Arts et Monuments. 1844. Pp. lvi. 312.

These romances have their general title from having been found in a miscellaneous volume compiled by Robert Thornton, residing at or near Oswaldkirk in Yorkshire, about the year 1440; and which is now preserved in the library of Lincoln cathedral. Its contents are fully described by Mr. Halliwell in the Introduction to the present volume, pp. xxv.-xxxvi., followed by descriptions of two similar volumes of English poetry, in the Cambridge University Library, Ff. ii. 38, and Ff. i. 6, from which the third and fourth Romances (which are imperfect in the Thornton MS.) were printed in this edition. Mr. Halliwell also refers to such portions of this remarkable Manuscript as have been made public by Ritson, Laing, Madden, Hartshorne, Wright, Black, and other editors.

VERNEY PAPERS. Notes of Proceedings in the Long Parliament, temp. Charles I. printed from original pencil memoranda taken in the House by Sir Ralph Verney, Knight, Member for the borough of Aylesbury, and now in the possession of Sir Harry Verney, Bart. Edited by JOHN BRUCE, Esq., F.S.A. 1845. Pp. xiii. 191.

“With the exception of some few single speeches, and the brief minutes in the Journals, we have little to which we may appeal, with any thing like an assurance of its fidelity, as a representation of the actual proceedings of the Long Parliament.” It is unnecessary to say more in regard to the historical value of this volume.

The Autobiography of Sir JOHN BRAMSTON, K.B., of Skreens, in the Hundred of Chelmsford; now first printed from the original MS. in the possession of his lineal descendant Thomas William Bramston, Esq., one of the Knights of the Shire for South Essex. 1845. Pp. xx. 443.

Sir John Bramston was born in 1611, the eldest son of Sir John Bramston, Chief Justice of the King's Bench. His personal and family memoirs, which are intermingled with public events and politics, were written in the latter years of a long life. “The autobiographer, though no doubt accurate enough in respect of events quorum pars fuit, is not to be implicitly depended upon in his narrative of public affairs.” See some instances exemplifying this remark in the Review published in the Gentleman's Magazine for Feb. 1846: where also some misprints in the text are pointed out. This volume was edited by LORD BRAYBROOKE, then President of the Society.

Letters from James Earl of Perth, Lord Chancellor of Scotland, &c., to his Sister the Countess of Erroll, and other members of his Family. Edited by WILLIAM JERDAN, M.R.S.L., and Corr. Mem. of the Real Academia de la Historia of Spain. 1845. Pp. xvi. 112.

James Drummond fourth Earl of Perth, appointed Chancellor of Scotland in 1684, became a convert to the church of Rome, and a faithful adherent to the exiled James II., who whilst at St. Germain's advanced him to the title of Duke of Perth, nominated him a Knight of the Garter, and appointed him First Lord of his Bedchamber, Chamberlain to the Queen, and Governor to the Prince of Wales. The first three letters in this volume were written whilst he was a prisoner in Stirling Castle in 1688: the remainder at various places in the Netherlands and Italy from 1693 to 1696. They contain many interesting notices of the exiled Stuarts and their followers: and were printed from the originals in the possession of Lady Wiltoughby de Eresby.

The original of this antient London chronicle is still preserved at Guildhall. Mr. Stapleton's Preface, which (it will be seen from the number of pages stated above,) occupies half the volume, is occupied in great measure in tracing the descent and representation of Henry FitzAylwin the first mayor of London, through the families of Aguilun, Bardolf, Beaumont, and Lovell, to the present Lord Beaumont and Earl of Abingdon. There is a distinct index to this portion of the work.

The Chronicle of Calais, in the reigns of Henry VII. and Henry VIII. to the year 1540. Edited from MSS. in the British Museum, by JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS, F.S.A. 1846. Pp. xlii. 228.

The chronicle which occupies forty-eight pages of this volume is attributed to Richard Turpyn a Burgess of Calais. His claim to the authorship is very doubtful: but it was evidently compiled by one who had access to the official records of the town. It is printed from a transcript by the chronicler Stowe, now the Harleian MS. 542. The appendix consists of documents relating to Calais during the period comprised in the chronicle, or to the other subjects of which it treats. In the introduction an historical sketch is given of the history of Calais during the English occupation; with facsimiles of a view of Calais, and a map of the adjacent country, both drawn temp. Hen. VIII., and now in the Cottonian collection.

POLYDORE VERGIL'S English History, from an early Translation preserved among the MSS. of the old Royal Library in the British Museum. Vol. I.

containing the first eight books, comprising the Period prior to the Norman Conquest. Edited by Sir HENRY ELLIS, K.H. 1846. Pp. xv. 324.

This is the first portion of the same work which has been already described under No. XXIX. The Council were "led to believe that an edition of the whole was desirable, not only as affording a faithful version of a work hitherto confined to the Latin tongue, but as preserving a beautiful translation, made at a period when our language was beginning to assume the character of modern elegance."* The whole work would have occupied two more intermediate volumes: but, as the members of the Society did not appear to appreciate it, it was not continued.

In the preface to this volume Sir Henry Ellis has made some further additions to Polydore's biography.

A Relation, or rather a True Account, of the Isle of England; with sundry particulars of the customs of these People, and of the royal revenues under King Henry the Seventh, about the year 1500. Translated from the Italian, with Notes, by CHARLOTTE AUGUSTA SNEYD. 1847. Pp. xviii. 135.

This is the earliest Venetian Relation of any foreign country known to be extant. An abridgment of a similar composition by Giovanni Micheli, ambassador from Venice in the reign of Mary, is published by Sir Henry Ellis in his Original Letters, Second Series;

* If Sir Henry Ellis's estimate of the language be admitted, the spelling is execrable. To conciliate the taste of the general reader, the orthography should be modernized.

and extracts from another by Petruccio Ubaldini, a Florentine, in the reign of Edward VI., have been published by Von Raumer.

The collection edited by Eugenio Alberi at Florence in 1840 contains three Relations of England, that of Daniele Barbaro in 1551 (of which an edition was privately, but very incorrectly, printed by Earl Macartney in 1804), that of Giovanni Micheli in 1557, and an anonymous one temp. Mary.

Prefixed to the present volume is a list of Venetian Ambassadors to England* from 1502 to 1763, by the late JOHN HOLMES, Esq., F.S.A., one of the Keepers of the Manuscripts in the British Museum. It includes references to their Relations in various collections of MSS., many of them being in that of the Rev. Walter Sneyd, the possessor of the original of that here printed.

Documents relative to the Foundation and Antiquities of the Collegiate Church of Middleham in the County of York; with an Historical Introduction, and incidental notices of the Castle, Town, and Neighbourhood. By the Rev. WILLIAM ATTWILL, Canon and Sub-Dean of Middleham. 1847. Pp. xxx. 112.

The college of Middleham was founded by a very prominent personage in English history, Richard Duke of Gloucester, afterwards King Richard the Third, and, by unusual good fortune, it still maintains its ground in Protestant times. It has otherwise few claims to general interest; and the present book differs in its character from other works of this Society. The "Introduction" is in fact a modern compilation of the Topographical class; and the "Documents," which are put foremost in the title-page, are in reality only an Appendix of such evidences as might be collected in regard to any other collegiate church.

* Mr. Holmes had previously published, in the Gentleman's Magazine for 1840, a Catalogue of the French Ambassadors to England. These and other similar collections by Mr. Holmes (considerably enlarged by his MS. additions) are now preserved among the Additional MSS. in the British Museum.

THE CAMDEN MISCELLANY. Volume the First. 1847.

This Volume contains Six several articles:—

- I. Register and Chronicle of the Abbey of Aberconway: from the Harleian MS. 3725. Edited by Sir HENRY ELLIS. Pp. 23.

After some historical prolegomena, the first date in this chronicle is 1170. It concludes with some charters granted to the abbey by King Edward I. Its language is Latin.

- II. Chronicle of the Rebellion in Lincolnshire, 1470. Edited by JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS, Esq., F.S.A. Lond. and Newe. Pp. 28.

From a contemporary narrative preserved in a MS. of the College of Arms, Vincent 435, art. ix. It is valuable not only from detailing particulars not elsewhere found; but as proceeding from a writer instructed by the King's government, and who appeals to documents throughout.

- III. Bull of Pope Innocent VIII. on the Marriage of Henry VII. with Elizabeth of York. Communicated by J. PAYNE COLLIER, Esq., Treas. S.A. Treasurer of the Camden Society. Pp. 7.

From a folio broadside, attributed to the press of Caxton; discovered by the Editor on the fly-leaf of an old book, and presented by him in 1852 to the Society of Antiquaries. It is an English translation of the Latin Bull printed in Rymer's Fœdera, xii. 297.

IV. Journal of the Siege of Rouen, 1591. By Sir THOMAS CONINGSBY, of Hampton Court, co. Hereford. Edited by JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS, Esq., F.S.A. Lond. and Newe. Pp. 84.

This journal is formed from a series of letters. Their writer Sir Thomas Coningsby was one of the officers of the army sent by Elizabeth, under the command of the Earl of Essex, to aid Henri IV. in his resistance to the League. It contains an account of the proceedings of the campaign of 1591 from the 13th August to the 6th September, and from the 3rd October to the 24th December, with many remarkable notices of the other English officers employed. The copy here edited was found in the Harl. MS. 288. A journal of the service performed during the same period by the English forces commanded by Sir John Norris in Bretagne, is appended to Churchyard's "Civill Wars in the Netherlands. 1602."

V. Letter from GEORGE FLEETWOOD to his Father, giving an account of the Battle of Lutzen, and the Death of Gustavus Adolphus. Edited by Sir PHILIP DE MALPAS GREY EGERTON, Bart., M.P., F.R.S., V.P.G.S. Pp. 12.

From a MS. found in the same box at Oulton Park as the Grey MS. described under No. XL. The writer of the Letter, which is dated "Stateene, the 22th Novemb. still. vet. 1622," was a son of Sir William Fleetwood, of Cranford in Middlesex, Receiver of the Court of Wards. Having entered the service of Sweden, he was made a Baron there, and left a son and heir named Gustavus.

VI. Diary of Dr. EDWARD LAKE, Archdeacon and Prebendary of Exeter, Chaplain and Tutor to the Princesses Mary and Anne, daughters of the Duke of York, afterwards James the Second, in the years 1677-1678. Edited by GEORGE PERCY ELLIOTT, Esq., Barrister-at-law. Pp. 32.

This Diary commences just before the marriage of the Princess Mary to the Prince of Orange. It contains some remarkable anecdotes of Charles the Second, and of various members of his family and court. The original MS. was in the Editor's possession.

A Commentary of the Services and Charges of William Lord Grey of Wilton, K.G., by his son ARTHUR LORD GREY of Wilton, K.G. With a Memoir of the Author, and illustrative Documents. Edited by Sir PHILIP DE MALPAS GREY EGERTON, Bart., M.P., F.R.S., V.P.G.S., &c. 1847. Pp. xxiv. 83.

A manuscript found at Oulton park, Cheshire, proved to be the original "Commentarie," written by Arthur Lord Grey, of the military actions of his father: communicated to Holinshed's Chronicle. The variations appeared to be sufficient to justify this reprint, and the text of Holinshed is appended. Among the documents in the appendix, derived chiefly from the patent rolls, is a long ceremonial of Lord Grey's funeral in 1562, from the College of Arms. Prefixed is a fac-simile of his garter-plate at Windsor, and of a map of the castle and town of Guisnes, in the Cottonian collection, Augustus I. n. 23.

Diary of WALTER YONGE, Esq., Justice of the Peace, and M.P. for Honiton, written at Colyton and Axminster, co. Devon, from 1604 to 1628. Edited by GEORGE ROBERTS, Author of the History of Lyme Regis, The Life of the Duke of Monmouth, &c. 1848. Pp. xxxii. 124.

Walter Yonge, the direct ancestor of the Baronets of that name, was a barrister-at-law, author of "A Manual, or a Justice of the Peace his Vade Mecum, 1642," and sheriff of Devonshire in 1628. He was of the Puritan party: and his Diary chiefly relates to public affairs.* The original MS. belonged to the Editor, having been purchased in a lot of old books at a sale at Taunton.

The Diary of HENRY MACHYN, Citizen and Merchant-Taylor of London, from A.D. 1550 to A.D. 1563. Edited by JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS, F.S.A. Lond. and Newc. 1848. Pp. xxxii. 464.

The original of this Diary is now among the Cottonian Manuscripts, Vitellius F. v. considerably injured by fire. It is the same which was largely used by Strype, in his various works, particularly from its earlier portions, and also by Mr. Payne Collier, in his History of the Stage, and by other writers. But the author had not been identified until this publication. Machyn was by trade a furnisher of funerals, his records of which preserve much genealogical information: whilst his details of occurrences in London, particularly those connected with the changes in religious observances, and demonstrations of popular opinion, are of considerable historical value. He was more than fifty years of age† at the time his Diary commences. "Machyn's Diary" has been frequently cited by Mr. Froude in his recent history of this period: and it is characterized as "one of the most valuable records of the interesting period to which it relates" by the Rev. Dr. Maitland, in his "Essays on subjects connected with the Reformation in England. 1849."

* A later Diary of the same writer, from 1642 to 1645, is now preserved in the British Museum, Addit. MSS. 18,777—18,780.

† After a remarkable practice, Machyn dated his birthday by the Wednesday in Whitsun week, so that it was with him a "moveable feast." I did not detect this circumstance before the book was published.

The Visitation of the County of Huntingdon, under the authority of WILLIAM CAMDEN, Clarenceux King of Arms, by his deputy NICHOLAS CHARLES, Lancaster Herald, A.D. 1613. Edited by Sir HENRY ELLIS, K.H. 1849. Pp. xv. 140.

This volume was undertaken as a tribute to the memory of Camden as a Herald. It is printed from the Cottonian MS. Julius F. viii., and all the trickings of arms, seals, &c. are engraved in wood. It was collated, during its progress through the press, with the MS. C. 3. in the College of Arms, which is regarded as the original of the Visitation.

Sir Henry Ellis in his preface has collected some interesting notices of Camden in his character of a Herald, together with others of his coadjutor Nicholas Charles.

XLIV.

The Obituary of RICHARD SMYTH, Secondary of the Poultry Compter, London : being a Catalogue of all such persons as he knew in their life : extending from A.D. 1627 to A.D. 1674. Edited by Sir HENRY ELLIS, K.H. Pp. xxii. 124.

This was printed from a transcript in the Sloane MSS. 886. The original has been since detected in the University Library at Cambridge, marked Mm. 4, 36. "It is well and clearly written, but the latter part of it marks the alteration of the hand by the advancing years of the writer. There are many variations in the orthography, and some omissions, in the Camden Society's publication." (Notes and Queries, 1st Series, ii. 309.)

Sir Henry Ellis has given in his preface an account of the life and writings of Smyth, together with his pedigree and some extracts from a priced catalogue (now in the British Museum,) of his books and manuscripts, which were sold by auction in 1683, being (as Oldys says,) the richest Catalogue of any private library that had then been printed. See also further notices of him in Notes and Queries, Second Series, iii. 112, viii. 87, xi. 444.

Certaine Considerations upon the Government of England. By Sir ROGER TWYSDEN, Kt. and Bart. Edited from the unpublished Manuscript by JOHN MITCHELL KEMBLE, Esq., M.A., Member of the Royal Academies of Berlin and Munich, &c. &c. &c. 1849. Pp. lxxxv. 191.

The author was the same Sir Roger Twysden who edited the Decem Scriptores in 1652. The introduction contains very interesting memoirs of that eminent antiquary and politician * The treatise, with other family papers, was placed in Mr. Kemble's hands by the Rev. Lambert B. Larking, who had married a direct descendant of Sir Roger. This valuable political treatise is supposed to have been written during its author's retirement after the cessation of the Civil troubles.

Letters of Queen Elizabeth and King James VI. of Scotland, some of them printed from originals in the possession of the Rev. Edward Ryder, and others from a MS. which formerly belonged to Sir Peter Thompson, Kt. Edited by JOHN BRUCE, Esq., Treas. S.A. 1849. Pp. xxii. 180.

Forty-three of the letters are from the first source mentioned in the title-page, and the remaining fifty-two from the second. Of the former, thirty-two are originals written wholly by the hand of queen Elizabeth. They are traced by the Editor from a family which produced many eminent Scottish statesmen, the Maitlands of Thirlestane. The other MS. is a volume of transcripts which appears to have been collected for Sir Peter Thompson, the Dorsetshire antiquary, who died in 1770. The letters range in date from 1582 to 1602. Those of Elizabeth "are terse, emphatic, animated; they teem with a native vigour; they abound in homely natural illustrations; and are forcible, consistent utterances of an independant individual will. James's letters are not less characteristic. Now obsequious and coaxing, now pedantic, now plausible, now pert; in one or two instances aiming at something like courtly gallantry and refinement; but never rising either to dignity of feeling or nobility of expression." The general tenour of this correspondence corrects the ordinary representations of the conduct of Elizabeth towards Scotland: showing that it was consistently regulated by two principles,—the one, a determination that no continental power should interfere by force of arms in Scottish affairs; the other, a determination to uphold Protestantism and the Protestant party.

XLVII.

Chronicon Petroburgense. Nunc primum typis mandatum, curante THOMA STAPLETON. 1849.
Pp. xv. 200.

This chronicle commences in the year 1122; consists for the first hundred years of brief entries principally relating to public affairs;

during the next fifty becomes a little more minute, and more specifically a Peterborough chronicle; but from 1273 to its close in 1294 assumes its particular importance.

The original is in the library of the Society of Antiquaries. A transcript, which had been made for the Record Commissioners, was lent to the Camden Society for printing, on the suggestion of Sir Francis Palgrave.

This was the last task of that laborious antiquary Mr. Stapleton, V.P.S.A. The Preface was written, during his fatal illness in August 1840, by Mr. Bruce, Treas. S.A.

XLVIII.

The Chronicle of Queen Jane, and of two years of Queen Mary, and especially of the Rebellion of Sir Thomas Wyatt: Written by a resident in the Tower of London. Edited, with illustrative Documents and Notes, by JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS, Esq., F.S.A. 1850. Pp. viii. 196.

The original of this chronicle, now the Harleian MS. 194, is a pocket diary, once in the possession of John Stowe, who derived from it some of the more interesting passages of the period between July 1553 and Oct. 1554. The author has not been positively identified, but there is reason to believe that he was one of the officers of the royal mint, and his name (from a marginal note of Stowe) perhaps ROWLAND LEA.

In the appendix are reprinted two rare tracts: 1. "The copie of a pistel or letter sent to Gilbard Potter, &c. 1553; 2. "The copie of a Letter sent in to Scotland, of the arivall and landyng, and moste noble Maryage of the moste illustre prynee Philippe prynee of Spayne. 1555 " The latter written by JOHN ELDER, whose proposal, addressed to Henry VIII. for the Union of England and Scotland, is printed from the Royal MSS. as the first article of the Bannatyne Miscellany. 1824.

XLIX.

Wills and Inventories, from the Registers of the Commissary of Bury St. Edmund's and the Archdeacon of Sudbury. Edited by SAMUEL TYMMS, Treasurer and Secretary of the Bury and West Suffolk Archæological Institute. 1850. Pp. xii. 300.

These Wills and Inventories extend from the year 1370 to 1650: and, though from a limited storehouse, are well selected and of considerable curiosity. They have an Appendix of some valuable notes, with Indexes of 1. Testators; 2. Persons; 3. Places; 4. Subjects.

Among the works of the Surtees Society, none received greater welcome than the volumes of York and Durham Wills, and at an early period of the Camden Society it was considered a very desirable object to follow so excellent an example. Though the Registers at Doctors' Commons were closed, except to the payers of enormous fees, there were others at Lambeth Palace full of the most interesting documents of this nature; and both the late Archbishop and the present have most liberally seconded the wishes of the Society. A volume of Lambeth Wills was even commenced at the press; but some unfortunate miscarriages, and the illness and death of Mr. Stapleton, who had undertaken to supply the requisite assistance, marred this most desirable design.

GUALTERI MAPES de Nugis Curialium Distinctiones quinque. Edited from the unique Manuscript in the Bodleian Library at Oxford, by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A., F.S.A., etc. 1850. Pp. xvi. 218.

Whatever uncertainty attends the authorship of the poetry (see the previous article, No. XVI.) attributed to Walter Mapes,—or Map, which was his real English name, there is no doubt of the present work having proceeded from his pen. "It is the book in which this remarkable man amused himself with putting down his own sentiments on the passing events of the day, along with the popular gossip of the courtiers with whom he mixed—in the reign of Henry II. It contains almost the only authentic details we have relating to the life of its author, besides a great mass of historical anecdotes which are entirely new to us. In fact, the whole book is one mass of contemporary anecdote, romance, and popular legend, interesting equally by its curiosity and its novelty." (Preface.)

No other MS. is known but that in the Bodleian Library, with the exception of the Epistle inserted in the fourth "Distinction" or division (pp. 142-154,) entitled Dissausio Valerii ad Rufinum philosophum ne uxorem ducat, which occurs as an anonymous production in several MSS. and was printed among the supposititious works of St. Jerome.

The Pylgrymage of Sir Richard Guylforde to the Holy Land, A.D. 1506, from a copy believed to be unique, from the press of Richard Pynson. Edited by Sir HENRY ELLIS, K.H., Sec. S. A., Principal Librarian of the British Museum. 1851. Pp. xvi. 92. The Preface is followed by a sheet pedigree of the family of Guldeford of Hempsted, Kent.

This is one of the few works of the Camden Society that are reprints of the early productions of typography. The original is in the Grenville Library at the British Museum. The name of the author does not appear, but he was probably the chaplain attendant upon Sir Richard Gylford, who died on this journey when at Jerusalem.* In the Gentleman's Magazine for June and Sept. 1851, and Jan. 1852, are three articles (by the present writer) upon Pilgrimage to the Holy Land, in which it was shown that most of the descriptive passages of this book, as well as those of the Pilgrimage of Richard Torkington in 1517,† were derived from some Latin manual‡ then current in the hands of the pilgrims, and which was either an abridgment of the great work by Bernhard de Breidenbach on the same subject, first published at Mentz in the year 1483, or else was the common source of some of the details given by that author. Torkington sometimes corresponds with Gylford, even in the narrative of his personal adventures; but on the whole it appears more probable that they both copied from some former writer, rather than that Torkington actually copied Gylford.

Moneys received and paid for Secret Services of Charles II. and James II. from 30th March, 1679, to 25th December, 1688. Edited from a MS. in the possession of William Selby Lowndes, * Sir Richard Gylford (who was a Knight of the Garter,) died at Jerusalem, Sept. 6, 1506, the day after his principal comrade, John Whitby, Prior of Gisborough in Yorkshire.

† The Pilgrimage of Richard Torkington, Parson of Mulberton in Norfolk, is a small MS. volume formerly in the possession of Mr. R. B. Wheler of Stratford upon Avon. Considerable extracts from it were published in the Gentleman's Magazine for October 1812, and they are reprinted in Fosbroke's British Monachism. Those which are added in the Magazine for Jan. 1852 exhaust all his most remarkable passages. Torkington's Pilgrimage and that of William Wey were both for some time on the list of Suggested Works of the Camden Society. The latter has been subsequently printed for the Roxburghe Club, 1857.

‡ As shown by the names of places being generally in the Latin genitive case.

Esq., by JOHN YONGE AKERMAN, Esq., Fellow and Secretary of the Society of Antiquaries of London. 1851. Pp. x. 240.

This was the account rendered by Henry Grey, Esq. some time after the accession of William III. He had received during nine years and three quarters the sum of 565,573*l.* 15*s.* 5*¾d.*, and expended the whole, except a balance of 341*l.* 5*s.* 6*½d.* The payments are scarcely of the kind which might be expected from the title. They are principally divisible into two classes: 1. Extraordinary expenses incident to the management of the King's private estate, and the repairs and improvements of his residences; and 2. Payments and gratuities to private persons, for incidental services. There are frequent payments to agents, as, for example, to William Chiffinch, for expenses that are not described. Indexes of Persons, Places, and Matters, render the contents of the volume readily available.

LIII.

Chronicle of the Grey Friars of London. Edited by JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS, F.S.A. Lond. and Newc. 1852. Pp. xxxv. 108.

This is one of the London Chronicles, being formed on the groundwork of a list of the Mayors and Sheriffs, and dating according to the mayoralty year, to which the year of our Lord and the year of the King's reign are made to accommodate themselves, in a way explained in the preface. The Latin chronicle entitled "Liber de Antiquis Legibus," and "The French Chronicle of London," (both printed for the Camden Society, Nos. XXXIV. and XXVIII.) are also chronicles of this class. Mr. Nichols has enumerated (in p. vii.) eight such chronicles besides the present, including the large and well-known work of Fabian; and the brief London Chronicle of the times of Henry VII. and Henry VIII., printed in the Camden Miscellany, vol. IV., may be added to the list.

The present chronicle most nearly resembles that contained in the very miscellaneous volume first printed in 1502 and reprinted in 1811, edited by F. Donee, Esq., as "The Customs of London, otherwise called Arnold's Chronicle." But their similarity ceases after the year 1502; and towards the end of the reign of Henry VII. this chronicle begins to have a character of peculiar importance, its compiler being watchfully attentive to the religious changes of the times. It terminates in the year 1556. It was little used by Stowe,* though he possessed the original, and it wholly escaped the attention of Strype. The distinctive title given to it by the Editor is owing to its being found in the Register-book of the Grey Friars of London, which is now bound as part of the Cotton. MS. Vitellius F. xii. Mr. Nichols, at p. xxxi, has described the contents of this Register, of which he had previously edited the first portion, being a catalogue of the sepulchral monuments in the Grey Friars' church, in the fifth volume of the Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica, 1838. The historical account, which next follows, in Latin, of the order and house of the Franciscans, was published by Stevens in the first volume of his additions to Dugdale's Monasticon (1718-23), translated into English, and is reprinted (still with very numerous errors of names,) in the new edition of that great work (1817-29), but has lately been published in the original Latin in the volume of Monumenta Franciscana, edited by J. S. Brewer, M.A., 1858, under the direction of the Master of the Rolls. Then comes the present Chronicle; and the book concludes with some genealogical tables in illustration of scriptural and English history, but of no value.

* One of the most curious passages extracted by Stowe from this Chronicle, that relating to the execution of Agnes lady Hungerford (there erroneously called Alice), for the alleged murder of her husband, has been further illustrated—though not entirely cleared of its mystery, by an article in the XXXVIIIth volume of the Archæologia, entitled, "An Inventory of the Goods of Dame Agnes Hungerford," &c.

THE CAMDEN MISCELLANY. Volume the Second.

This Volume contains Six Articles: viz.—

- I. Account of the Expenses of John of Brabant, and Henry and Thomas of Lancaster, A.D. 1292-3. Edited by JOSEPH BURTT, Esq., of the Public Record Office. 1853. Pp. xvi. 18.

John son of the Duke of Brabant was contracted in marriage to Margaret daughter of King Edward I. in the year 1278, before the princess was three years of age. In 1284, when John was fifteen, he came to reside in England, and he remained here until his father's death in 1294. His companions during the year 1292-3, Thomas and Henry of Lancaster, were the King's nephews, and both of them afterwards Earls of Lancaster. This household book traces the movements of these princes from Berwick and the Scotch border to various places in the midland and southern counties, and records their expenses, as kept by Richard of Loughborough. The original roll is among the records of the Treasurer of the Receipt of the Exchequer.

- II. Household Expenses of the Princess Elizabeth during her residence at Hatfield, October 1, 1551, to September 30, 1552. Edited by VISCOUNT STRANGFORD, G.C.B., G.C.H., F.R.S., Director S.A., &c. &c. 1853. Pp. iv. 48.

The household book here printed belonged at various times to Gregory Ballard, LL.B, registrar of the diocese of Oxford, who gave it (to some person unknown) in the year 1652; to Gustavus Brander, Esq.; to Samuel Tyssen, Esq; and to William Barnes, Esq., of Redland hall near Bristol; by whose widow (after it had been bought in at the sale of his library for 150*l.*.) it was given to Lord Viscount Strangford. It was described in The Antiquarian Repertory, vol. i. p. 64, and in Nichols's Progresses of Queen Elizabeth, vol. i. p. vii. The account is rendered by Thomas Parry, Esq., Cofferer of the Lady Elizabeth, and each of its twenty-six pages bear the signature of the princess and that of her chamberlain Sir Walter Buckler. There are five initial letters, very spiritedly drawn in pen and ink, one of which (representing Justice,) is engraved in the Antiquarian Repertory, and two others (*Nature** and Temperance,) in the present edition.

III. The Request and Suite of a True-hearted Englishman, written by WILLIAM CHOLMLEY, Londyner, in the year 1553. Edited, from the original MS. in the library of the Faculty of Advocates of Edinburgh, by W. J. THOMS, F.S.A. 1853. Pp. vi. 20.

This interesting political treatise has (since its publication by the Camden Society,) been largely quoted by the historian Froude. It relates to commercial matters, and particularly the trade in wool and cloth. Its author is identified as William Cholmley, of London, grocer, whose will was proved in the prerogative court of Canterbury in 1554.

IV. The Discovery of the Jesuits' College at Clerkenwell in March 1627-8: and a Letter found in their House, (as asserted,) directed to the Father Rector at Bruxelles. Edited by JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS, F.S.A. 1852. Pp. 64.

* By milk sent forth from her breasts Nature is revivifying the body of a man cut into pieces; with this motto—

Cuncta fovens lapsa instauro, peritura deduco.

The noble Editor apparently did not perceive the meaning of this design, remarking in his Introduction that "the subject has completely baffled me, though I have sought for it in all the works on Emblems, &c. to which I could procure access."

The Narrative of this Discovery was written by Sir John Coke, secretary of state, not by Sir Robert Heath, the attorney-general, as I supposed at the time when it was printed. The original is preserved in the State Paper Office; together with the documents upon which it was founded. Some of these, which were missing, having been recovered, are printed and described in the Fourth volume of the Camden Miscellany, as a Supplement to the present work. I am informed by my friend Mr. Bruce that others have since turned up.

The Letter found among some Jesuites, &c. (which was printed in 1643 as a pamphlet, and imperfectly in Prynne's "Hidden Workes of Darkenes brought to Publick Light," and in Rushworth's Historical Collections,) has been ascertained to have been a political squib, the production of Sir John Maynard, K.B. the M. P. for Calne: see the "Supplement" (in the Camden Miscellany, vol. IV.) p. 10.

V. Trelawny Papers. Edited by WILLIAM DURRANT COOPER, F.S.A. 1853. Pp. 23.

These papers extend in date from 1644 to 1711, and are connected with the well-known Jonathan Trelawny, successively Bishop of Bristol, Exeter, and Winchester, and his father and grandfather.

VI. Autobiography and Anecdotes, by WILLIAM TASWELL, D.D., sometime Rector of Newington, Surrey, Rector of Bermondsey, and previously Student of Christ Church, Oxford. A.D. 1651-1682. Edited by GEORGE PERCY ELLIOTT, Esq., Barrister-at-law. Pp. 40.

Dr. Taswell was a son-in-law of Archdeacon Lake, whose Diary forms a portion of Vol. I. of the Camden Miscellany. His personal anecdotes relate chiefly to the years which he spent at Westminster School and in the University of Oxford. They were translated by his grandson from an original written in Latin, which is lost.

LVI.

Letters and Papers of the Verney Family down to the end of the year 1639. Printed from the original MSS. in the possession of Sir Harry Verney, Bart. Edited by JOHN BRUCE, Esq. 1853. Pp. xiv. 308, and a sheet pedigree.

These papers commence in the reign of Edward I. but are not numerous before the seventeenth century. The Editor has interwoven them with a continuous history of the family, so that they are presented to the reader in the most attractive form. Among the subjects noticed are,—in the reigns of Henry VI. and Edward IV. the clever management by which Sir Ralph Verney, the Yorkist lord mayor, was able to recover for his son the lands of the Lancastrian Sir Robert Whittingham; in the reign of Henry VII. the gay life led by the courtier Sir Ralph Verney,* the chamberlain of princess Margaret, and one of her attendants into Scotland; in the reign of queen Mary the details of Dudley's conspiracy, in which two of the Verneys were implicated, and in respect to which our historians have been much at fault; in the reign of James I. the journey of Prince Charles into Spain, upon which Sir Edmund Verney was attendant; and the adventures of the English pirates in the Mediterranean; in the reign of Charles I. the forced loans and the excessive amount assessed upon Hampden, and a variety of other matters of public interest. The latter part of the volume relates principally to the armament set forth against the Scottish covenanters in 1639; of which the letters of Sir Edmund Verney contain the best known account.

* Mr. Bruce has established (p. 31,) the marriage of Sir Ralph with Eleanor sister to Sir Richard Pole, K.G., the father of Cardinal Pole and his brethren, by Margaret (of Clarence) Countess of Salisbury. He has inadvertently styled Geoffrey Pole, the father of Sir Richard and Eleanor, "Sir Geoffrey Pole, K.G." He was plain "Geoffrey Pole, of Buckinghamshire." (Collectanea Topogr. et Geneal. i. 130.)

Mr. Bruce has also (at p. 47) identified as Sir Ralph Verney's a tomb at King's Langley which had been traditionally reported to be that of Piers Gaveston.

It was the Editor's intention to continue this work in another volume.

LVII.

The Aneren Riwle; a Treatise on the Rules and Duties of Monastic Life. Edited and translated from a Semi-Saxon MS. of the Thirteenth Century. By JAMES MORTON, B.D., Vicar of Holbeach, Prebendary of Lincoln, and Chaplain to the Right Hon. Earl Grey. 1853. Pp. xxviii. 480.

The original of this work, both in the Saxon-English and in a Latin version, exists in various manuscripts, of which the Editor gives an account in his Preface. The text he has preferred is the Cottonian MS. Nero A. xiv.; and, contrary to the opinion of Wanley and of Planta (in the Catalogue of the Cottonian MSS.), Mr. Morton gives reasons to conclude that it was first written in English not in Latin. It had been usually attributed to the pen of Simon of Ghent, bishop of Salisbury 1297-1315; but, as its language is certainly more antient, Mr. Morton suggests that it was written by William Poore, an earlier bishop of that see, 1217-1228, who was born and died at Tarrent in Dorsetshire, and probably addressed this composition to the nuns of that place, when he reconstructed and enlarged their abbey. It may therefore be regarded as an example of the West of England dialect of the thirteenth century. Both as a picture of monastic life and as a monument of our national language it is highly curious; and it is a matter of wonder that its editio princeps should not have appeared before the formation of the Camden Society. An elaborate glossarial index is appended.

Letters of the Lady Brilliana Harley, wife of Sir Robert Harley, of Brampton Bryan, Knight of the Bath. With Introduction and Notes by THOMAS TAYLOR LEWIS, A.M., Vicar of Bridstow, Herefordshire. 1854. Pp. lii. 275.

These Letters were copied from the originals in the possession of Lady Frances Vernon Harcourt, a descendant of the writer.

Lady Brilliana was a daughter of Edward Lord Viscount Conway, and received her name in allusion to her birth at the Brill in Holland, whilst her father was Lieut.-Governor there. Her husband Sir Robert Harley was a very active member of the Long Parliament, and a leading supporter of the Republican party in the county of Hereford. His wife defended the castle of Brampton Bryan when besieged by the Royalists in 1643; it surrendered after three weeks, and her death ensued three months after. Her letters, which are chiefly addressed either to her husband or her eldest son, are charming effusions of domestic affection, in the midst of danger and difficulty.

LIX. AND LXII.

A Roll of the Household Expenses of Richard de Swinfield, Bishop of Hereford, during part of the years 1289 and 1290. Edited by the Rev. JOHN WEBB, M.A., F.S.A., M.R.S.L. 1854.

Volume II. Abstracts, Illustrations, Glossary, and Index. 1855. Together, pp. ccxxxii. 270.

The great value of this work consists in the elaborate manner in which it is edited by that erudite antiquary the Rev. John Webb, who, in his Abstract and Illustrations, consisting of more than two hundred pages, has brought together a very copious store of interesting information in elucidation of the state of society, both religious and civil, in the reign of Edward I. The Appendix, of 42 pages, contains several important documents relating to the church of Hereford and the canonisation of bishop Cantilupe.

Grants, etc. from the Crown during the reign of Edward the Fifth, from the original Docket-Book, MS. Harl. 433. And two Speeches for opening Parliament, by JOHN RUSSELL, Bishop of Lincoln, Lord Chancellor. With an Historical Introduction, by JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS, F.S.A. Lond. and Newc. 1854. Pp. lxvii. 96.

The text of this volume forms but a small portion of that valuable historical record, the Harleian MS. 433; a rough register or draft-book into which public business of all kinds, transacted by the clerks in personal attendance upon King Richard the Third, was entered from day to day. The portion here printed is limited to the two months of the nominal rule of Edward the Fifth. The whole MS. was described by Humphrey Wanley, in his Catalogue of the Harleian Manuscripts, more fully than any other, occupying sixty-five folio pages (vol. i. pp. 256-311); still it was found that he had arbitrarily passed over nearly two-fifths of the contents, and a fresh abstract was consequently prepared in the year 1835, in the Manuscript Department of the British Museum, with a view to an improved Catalogue of the Harleian Collection. This is now accessible as the Additional MS. 11,269: but the labour would have been better bestowed upon an index to the original. The record itself ought to be printed, but it is a task too large for the Camden Society, the members of which require variety in their books.

In his Introduction the Editor has reviewed the history of the short reign of Edward the Fifth; and has proved that Mr. Sharon Turner was mistaken in concluding that a parliament was held during that period, and that the Duke of Gloucester assumed the functions of Protector upon such authority. The brief Patent Roll of Edward V., of which Mr. Nichols describes the contents, shows that Richard had become Protector on the 14th of May, 1483. A parliament was summoned for the 25th of June, and for that occasion the speech of the lord chancellor, supposed by Mr. Sharon Turner to have been made in the presence of Edward V., was prepared. The parliament was deferred by supersedes, as appears by a writ received at York on the 21st of June.*

The Speeches of bishop Russell, the chancellor, which are preserved in the Cottonian MS. Vitellius E. x. are, in reality, the imperfect drafts of three: 1. that prepared for the parliament of Edward V.; 2. that prepared for the 11th Nov. 1483, when Richard first proposed to meet his parliament as King; and 3. that actually delivered to his parliament on the 23rd Jan. 1483-4; but in the third the material of the second is worked up again. These compositions, which in their character are believed to be unique,† and are very remarkable examples of the English language at that day, are appended by Mr. Nichols to his Introduction. The term then generally applied to the chancellor's speech was a Collation. A Latin oration by the same prelate made to Charles duke of Burgundy in 1470, when Dr. Russell went as one of the commissioners with the Garter, was printed at the time at Bruges, and is reprinted in the first volume of Dr. Dibdin's edition of Ames's Typographical Antiquities.

* In Mr. Gairdner's preface to "Letters and Papers illustrative of the Reigns of Richard III. and Henry VII." 1861, p. xviii. it is alleged that I have misunderstood this important incident of Richard's usurpation: for "the parliament really did meet, but the meeting was an informal one." Mr. Gairdner refers to the gathering at Baynard's Castle, on the 25th of June, the very day that had been appointed for the parliament at Westminster. I do not, however, perceive that such meeting lasted beyond the day, or can be maintained to have amounted to a parliament.

† A brief political sermon (in English), preached by the bishop of Exeter at St. Paul's on the accession of Edward IV. in 1461, is edited by Mr. Halliwell in the Archæologia, vol. xxix. p. 128, from the Cottonian MS. Vespasian E. vii.

LXI.

THE CAMDEN MISCELLANY. Volume the Third.
1855.

This Volume contains five Articles (the fourth and fifth being placed under one title), viz.:—

- I. Papers relating to Proceedings in the County of Kent, A.D. 1642-A.D. 1646. Edited by RICHARD ALMACK, Esq., F.S.A., from original MSS. in the possession of John George Weller Poley, Esq. Pp. vii. 68.

These documents furnish an authentic account of the proceedings of the Parliamentary party in Kent at the beginning of the Civil war, having been preserved by Thomas Weller, gentleman, of Tonbridge, who was Treasurer of the subscription moneys collected under the authority of the deputy lieutenants.

- II. Ancient Biographical Poems, on the Duke of Norfolk, Viscount Hereford, the Earl of Essex, and Queen Elizabeth. From Gough's Norfolk MSS. in the Bodleian Library. Edited by J. PAYNE COLLIER, Esq. Pp. 26.

These poems, whose authors are unknown, are from a MS. compiled by a Suffolk gentleman named Thomas Brampton. Some of his own verses, dated 1594, are printed at p. 5.

- III. A Relation of some Abuses which are committed against the Common-Wealth; together with a freindlie Reprehension of the same. Composed especially for the benefit of this countie of Durhame, December the xxvjth 1629, by a poore Freind and Welwisher to the Common-Wealth.

Edited, from the original MS. preserved in the British Museum, by Sir FREDERIC MADDEN,
K.H., F.R.S. Pp. iv. 35.

The author, A. L., was a poor bachelor, without land or estate, resident at no great distance from the city of Durham, and dates his Dedication to Richard Hunt, D.D., Dean of Durham, on the 26th Dec. 1629. He sets forth, in an earnest manner, the Abuses he laments to witness in his native county and the kingdom in general, which he classes under four heads, namely, the waste of woods, the pulling down of castles and fortresses, the decay of martial discipline, and the vanities of the people, in drinking, smoking, and apparel. His remarks have much curiosity, both as regards manners in general, and some particular statements that he makes.

IV. Inventories of the Wardrobes, Plate, Chapel Stuff, &c. of Henry FitzRoy, Duke of Richmond; and of the Wardrobe Stuff at Baynard's Castle, of Katharine Princess Dowager. Edited, with a Memoir and Letters of the Duke of Richmond, by JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS, F.S.A. Pp. c. 55.

These Inventories (both preserved in the Royal MS. 7 F. XIV.) are—

1. The Inventory of the Duke of Richmondes Goodes, taken by John Gostwyk, 25 July, 18 Hen. VIII. (1526)—i.e. upon his departure from London to reside in the North of England as Lord Warden of the Marches.

2. A View taken by Sir Edward Baynton, 13 Feb. 26 Hen. VIII. (1534-5) of all Warderobe Stuffe remaining within Baynardes Castille, whiche late was the Princesse dowgiers.

They have an Index, with glossarial explanations; and in the Preface the Editor has given a list of other contemporary documents of a similar character.

The Memoir contains very full particulars of the Duke of Richmond's establishment as Lieutenant or Viceroy in the North of England, and also of his education under Dr. Croke; together with twenty-one of his letters to the King, Wolsey, and Cromwell, derived from the State Paper Office, the Rolls House, and the British Museum.

Charles I. in 1646. Letters of King Charles the First to Queen Henrietta Maria. Edited by JOHN BRUCE, Esq., F.S.A., Dir. Camd. Soc. 1856. Pp. xxxi. 104.

Seventy-one letters, nearly all of them from Charles to his Queen, written in that fatal year when he trusted himself to the Scots army. They are from a copy-book which accidentally came into the possession of Mr. Joseph Conway Witton, of Bath, early in 1855; and which is supposed to have been a transcript from a book into which the letters, originally written in cypher, were transcribed for the Queen's use. A few of the letters had been previously published from the King's draft copies in Clarendon's State Papers. Mr. Bruce's Introduction is a luminous essay on the unfortunate King and his treacherous politics. "The great lesson to be deduced from this book is, that they who set themselves in opposition to Charles in his lifetime judged accurately of his character, and of the dangers to which the country was exposed under his government." It is further clear from these letters that the fortunes of England were laid with the most abject humility at the feet of the exiled Queen.

An English Chronicle of the reigns of Richard II., Henry IV., Henry V., and Henry VI., written before the year 1471; with an Appendix, containing the 18th and 19th years of Richard II., and the Parliament at Bury St. Edmund's 25th Henry VI.; and Supplementary Additions from the Cotton. MS. Chronicle called "Eulogium." Edited by the Rev. JOHN SILVESTER DAVIES, M.A., of Pembroke College, Oxford. 1856.

The Chronicle from which Mr. Davies has most diligently edited this volume, under the experienced advice of Sir Frederic Madden, and of Mr. Macray of the Bodleian Library, author of the Manual of British Historians, is a copy of that most prevalent form of our English annals called the Brut Chronicle,* which was successively in the possession of the old chroniclers Stowe and Speed (both of whose annotations it contains), and which had descended from the latter to the Editor's father, John Speed Davies, Esq. The Editor has carefully specified at page x. of his Preface those portions of this Chronicle which are "new," or peculiar to itself. The two first articles of the Appendix, mentioned in the title-page, are from a Chronicle written in 1448 by Richard Fox of St. Alban's, now in the Duke of Bedford's library at Woburn. The supplementary extracts from the Eulogium† are added to supply portions deficient in the text, it having been found that the English compiler had obtained his materials very considerably by translation from that Latin chronicle (MS. Cotton. Galba, E. vii.)

* On the history of the Brut Chronicle there is an interesting paper by Sir Frederic Madden commencing the Second Series of Notes and Queries in 1856.

† Now edited by Frank Scott Haydon, Esq. B.A., under the direction of the Master of the Rolls.

The original of this record, an Extent of the Hospitallers' lands in England, is in the Public Library at Valetta, in Malta, and was first examined by Mr. Larking when passing the winter of 1838-9 in that island for the benefit of his health. The able Introduction by Mr. Kemble, occupying pp. xii.-lxxii. contains a very complete analysis of the whole document. The indexes also are particularly copious.

J. PAYNE COLLIER, Esq. 1857. Pp. ix. 219.

Consisting both of papers of miscellaneous character preserved in the archives of the Trevelyan family, and of documents relating to that family derived from the public records. Towards the end are considerable extracts from two volumes of the Accounts of Bryan Tuke esquire, treasurer of the chamber of Henry VIII., and from a similar Account of Sir William Cavendish, treasurer of the chamber to Edward VI. A second volume of Trevelyan Papers is partly printed. (1862.)

Journal of the Very Rev. ROWLAND DAVIES, LL.D.,
Dean of Ross, (and afterwards Dean of Cork,) from March 8, 1688-9, to September 29, 1690. Edited, with Notes, and an Appendix, and some account of the Author and his Family, by RICHARD CAULFIELD, B.A., Member of the Society of Antiquaries of Normandy, &c. 1857. Pp. xiv. 188.

This Journal relates to a short but busy period of the writer's life, during which he was chiefly resident in England in consequence of the temporary supremacy of the party of James II. in Ireland, sojourning partly in London, and for some months as a curate at Yarmouth in Norfolk. In the latter part he is following the campaign in Ireland, including the battle of the Boyne, the siege of Limerick, &c. It was printed from a transcript in the possession of his great-great-grandson Rowland Davies, Esq. of Cork, the original MS. being lost or mislaid.

N.B. Two leaves of this work, being pp. *121-124*, and intended to follow p. 120, were, together with a page of Index relating to them, issued to the Members of the Society with the following Publication.

The Domesday of St. Paul's of the year M.CC.XXII.; or, Registrum de Visitatione Maneriorum per Robertum Decanum; and other original Documents relating to the Manors and Churches belonging to the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's London in the Twelfth and Thirteenth Centuries. With an Introduction, Notes, and Illustrations, by WILLIAM HALE HALE, M.A., Archdeacon of London. 1858. Pp. xvii. cxxxvii. 211.

The principal document of this volume resembles the Domesday book of the royal exchequer, but amplified into a full enumeration of the tenants and their lands. It is the book marked K in the archives of St. Paul's, which is inscribed with the word DOMESDEYE on its outside cover. A fragment of the earlier Domesday of Bishop Ralph de Diceto is added from the Rawlinson MSS. in the Bodleian Library, as well as several other inquisitions and rentals of various dates from the records of the Dean and Chapter. The Editor in his Introduction has minutely commented upon their contents.

A similar volume by the same Editor relating to the Church of Worcester is one of the works of the Camden Society now in the press. (1862.)

Liber Famelicus of Sir JAMES WHITELOCKE, a Judge of the Court of King's Bench in the Reign of James I. and Charles I., now first published from the original Manuscript. Edited by JOHN BRUCE, Esq., V.P.S.A. 1858. Pp. xx. 131.

Sir James was the father of Bulstrode Whitelocke, author of the Historical Memorials, and of the Journal of his Swedish Embassy, re-edited by Henry Reeve, Esq., F.S.A., 1855. He was himself the writer of several treatises included in Hearne's Curious Discourses. The present composition relates chiefly to his personal and family history, and to that of his legal contemporaries, of whom some very interesting characters and anecdotes are given. It is printed from the autograph manuscript in the possession of a descendant.

The Romance of Blonde of Oxford and Jehan of Dammartin. By PHILIPPE DE REIMES, a Trouvère of the Thirteenth Century. Edited, from the unique MS. in the Imperial Library at Paris, by M. LE ROUX DE LINCY. 1858. Pp. xxvii. 214.

Philippe de Reimes was the author of two metrical romances in French, both preserved in the same volume; of which the other, entitled the Roman de la Manakine, was edited by M. Francisque Michel for the Bannatyne Club in 1840. "The poem of Blonde of Oxford and Jean of Dammartin belongs to none of what are called the cycles of medieval romance, but it is a simple narrative of familiar incidents such as belonged in the thirteenth century to everyday life; and it is a most interesting picture of medieval manners, equally vivid and minute." The substance of the story is given in the Introduction.

THE CAMDEN MISCELLANY. Volume the Fourth.
1859.

This Volume contains,—

- I. A London Chronicle during the Reigns of Henry the Seventh and Henry the Eighth. Edited, from the original MS. in the Cottonian Library of the British Museum, by CLARENCE HOPPER. 1859. Pp. 21.

From the MS. Cotton. Vespasian A. xxv. Commencing in 1500 and extending to 1545.

- II. The Expenses of the Judges of Assize riding the Western and Oxford Circuits, temp. Elizabeth, 1596-1601. Edited, from the MS. Account-book of Thomas Walmysley, one of the Justices of the Common Pleas, by WILLIAM DURRANT COOPER, F.S.A. 1858. Pp. 60.

The MS., which came from papers belonging to the family of Lord Petre, descendants of Mr. Justice Walmysley, was lent to the Editor by Mr. Wm. Harper, of Bury, Lanc. Besides the expenses of the Judges, it contains lists of the numerous presents that were made of provisions for their table, and of the places and persons which entertained them.

- III. The Skryveners' Play, The Incredulity of St. Thomas. From a Manuscript in the possession of John Sykes, Esq., M.D., of Doncaster. Edited by J. PAYNE COLLIER, F.S.A. 1859. Pp. 18.

This is one of the fifty-seven Pageants of the great Corpus-Christi Play at York; of which the perfect series (formerly in the hands of Thoresby, Horace Walpole, and Mr. Heywood Bright,) is now locked up in the inaccessible collection of Lord Ashburnham.* "The manuscript was doubtless the very prompt-book used by the person denominated Book-holder, whose duty it was to watch and assist the hesitating performers in the delivery of their parts." It appears to have been preserved in the city archives of York, from which it was edited (very inaccurately) by Mr. J. Croft, F.S.A., in his Excerpta Antiqua, 1797. Having wandered into private hands, it has been presented by Dr. Sykes (since the printing of this edition) to the Literary and Philosophical Institution of York.

IV. The Childe of Bristowe, a Poem by JOHN LYDGATE. Edited, from the original MS. in the British Museum, by CLARENCE HOPPER. 1859.
Pp. 28.

A legendary tale of a son making restitution for the extortions of a usurious father, from the Harl. MS. 2382. A version of the same story occurring in the Cambridge University MS. Ff. ii. 38, was edited by Mr. J. O. Halliwell in a Collection of Early English Poetry, 1846, 8vo. See the Thornton Romances, (Camden Society, 1844,) p. xli.

Mr. Edward Towneley had, still earlier, in 1822, presented to the Roxburghe Club "Judicium, a Pageant. Extracted from the Towneley MS. of Ancient Mysteries." The first publication of the Abbotsford Club was "Ancient Mysteries," from the Digby MS. 1835; and its second "The Weavers' Pageant," 1836.

anniversary of that battle he had an interview with the King at Oxford, and in the following summer another at Worcester. In memory of his wounds a part of his armorial augmentation was a banner charged with a cross between sixteen shields, and for a crest, "a chevalier in a fighting posture, his left arm hanging down useless, and holding a bridle in his teeth, his scarf red, his sword, face, arms, and horse cruciated."

VI. The Letters of Pope to Atterbury, when in the Tower of London. Edited by JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS, F.S.A. 1859. Pp. 22.

These letters, from an old transcript communicated by George Wentworth, Esq., of Woolley Park, Yorkshire, (and of which a corresponding transcript exists among Cole's MSS. in the British Museum,) are apparently in the state in which they were written, differing in some remarkable respects from the form in which they were afterwards published by their author, and have hitherto been printed.

VII. Supplementary Note to the Discovery of the Jesuits' College at Clerkenwell in March 1627-8: printed in the Second Volume of the Camden Miscellany. By JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS, F.S.A. 1859. Pp. 10.

Diary of the Marches of the Royal Army during the great Civil War; kept by RICHARD SYMONDS. Now first published from the original MS. in the British Museum. Edited by CHARLES EDWARD LONG, M.A. Trin. Coll. Cambridge. 1859. Pp. xiv. 296.

This Diary extends from April 10, 1644, to Feb. 11, 1645-6. It is contained in four pocket volumes, which, after having been dispersed, are now reassembled in the British Museum. Though valuable for its historical passages, its main contents are church-notes and other heraldic memoranda. Extracts have been formerly published in Nichols's History of Leicestershire, Hutchins's History of Dorsetshire, and other topographical works.

The author, like many others of his family, held the office of one of the cursitors in Chancery; but he became one of the troop of horse commanded by Lord Bernard Stuart (created Earl of Lichfield) in the King's army. He has left several other manuscript volumes, as well of his notes made in England as during his travels in France and Italy, many of which are now in the British Museum, and are described by Mr. Long in his Preface; also three volumes of collections for the county of Essex, now in the library of the College of Arms.

State Paper Office, and University College, London, author of “Outlines of the Constitutional History of England,” &c. 1859. Pp. viii. 139.

The “letters of state” are in Latin, written by Milton during the Commonwealth, in his capacity of Secretary for Foreign Tongues. These form only a small portion of the documents industriously collected and very carefully edited in this volume.

Letters of George Lord Carew to Sir Thomas Roe, Ambassador to the Court of the Great Mogul, 1615-1617. Edited by JOHN MACLEAN, F.S.A., Keeper of the Records of H. M. Ordnance in the Tower of London, Editor of the Life of Sir Peter Carew, Knt. 1860. Pp. xiv. 160.

George Lord Carew, afterwards Earl of Totnes, was when he wrote these letters Master of the Ordnance and Vicechamberlain to the Queen of James I. His friend Sir Thomas Roe was gone on a mission to the Great Mogul, at the expense of the East India Company. Roe's letters and negotiations during a subsequent embassy to the same potentate during the years 1621-28 were edited in 1740 in a folio volume by the historian Carte, under the patronage of the Society for the Encouragement of Learning. The letters now published were also in Carte's possession, and how they came into the State Paper Office, where they are now preserved, has not been explained. Carte accurately described them as “a journal of occurrences, as well in England as in other parts of Europe, from 1613 to 1617, containing short memorials of fact, like Camden's summary of King James's reign.” They are in reality News Letters, and afford an example that men in very eminent positions did not disdain that species of composition, before printed news-papers were yet issued. In several places (pp. 54, 80, 139,) Carew terms them his gazettes. They were written in the way of a journal, as incidents occurred, or foreign intelligence arrived, and transmitted to the writer's very distant correspondent only at four intervals, in April 1615, and in January of the three following years. Sir Thomas Roe sent a "journal" in return (p. 47).

Narratives of the Days of the Reformation, chiefly from the Manuscripts of John Foxe the Martyrologist, with two Contemporary Biographies of Archbishop Cranmer. Edited by JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS, F.S.A. 1859. Pp. xxviii. 366.

The contents of this volume are selected from such of the MSS. of Foxe's collections now in the British Museum as were not used by himself in the Book of Martyrs, and were only published imperfectly in the works of Strype. The Anecdotes of archbishop Cranmer, by his secretary Ralph Morice, are from the original MS. now in Corpus Christi college library at Cambridge. The other principal articles in this volume are,—The Reminiscences of John Louth, Archdeacon of Nottingham; The Autobiography of Thomas Hancock, minister of Poole; The Defence of Thomas Thackham, minister of Reading, in regard to his conduct toward Julius Palmer; The Autobiographical Anecdotes of Edward Underhill, Gentleman Pensioner, "the hot Gospeller"; The Troubles of Thomas Mowntayne, Rector of St. Michael Tower-Ryal, related by himself; a brief Chronicle by a monk of St. Augustine's, Canterbury, extending from 1532 to 1538; and a Summary of Ecclesiastical Events in the year 1554.

Correspondence of King James VI. of Scotland with Sir Robert Cecil and others in England, during the reign of Queen Elizabeth; with an Appendix containing papers illustrative of Transactions between King James and Robert Earl of Essex. Principally published for the first time from Manuscripts of the Most Noble the Marquis of Salisbury preserved at Hatfield. Edited by JOHN BRUCE, Esq., F.S.A. 1861.

This very essential contribution to the history of the period originated in two purchases, one made by the Camden Society, and the other by the Editor, of transcripts taken many years ago of some of the letters now published. By the liberality of the Marquis of Salisbury the defects of those transcripts were remedied, and the accuracy and completeness of the work was insured. It forms the more important portion of the same correspondence of which the letters written by or to Lord Henry Howard were edited by Lord Hailes in a small volume, under the title of "The Secret Correspondence of Sir Robert Cecil with James VI. King of Scotland," printed at Edinburgh in 1766.

LXXIX.

Letters written by John Chamberlain during the Reign of Queen Elizabeth. Edited from the Originals by SARAH WILLIAMS. 1861. Pp. xii. 188.

Mr. John Chamberlain is one of the best known of the writers of news-letters in the days in which he lived. He is full of intelligence both natural and acquired, untired both in gathering and communicating; with an easy style, much classical elegance, and unflagging liveliness and spirit. His letters have never yet been edited as they ought to be: though many of them have appeared in Nichols's Progresses of Elizabeth and James, and in "The Court and Times of King James I." as well as elsewhere. The present volume contains the earlier portion of his letters addressed to Mr. Carleton (afterwards Lord Viscount Dorchester,) in the reign of Elizabeth.

His personal history has for the first time been developed in the Preface. He was the son of a London alderman, whose interesting Will, lately discovered by Mr. Bruce, is destined for the next volume of the Camden Miscellany.

Miss Williams, the industrious and amiable Editor of this volume, prematurely died on the eve of its publication.

Proceedings principally in the County of Kent, in connection with the Parliaments called in 1640, and especially with the Committee of Religion appointed in that year. Edited by the Rev. LAMBERT B. LARKING, M.A. from the collections of Sir EDWARD DERING, Bart. 1626-1644. With a Preface by JOHN BRUCE, Esq. F.S.A. 1861. Pp. li. 248.

This volume contains, 1. Various documents, thirty-five in number, connected with the Parliaments of 1640; 2. Sir Edward Dering's notes made as chairman of the Committee of Religion; 3. Petitions against the Clergy from places in Kent, with their answers and other papers relating thereto (in number seventy). The information conveyed is of much importance in reference to the state of the Church, and the administration of archbishop Laud. The preface by Mr. Bruce contains a very interesting sketch of the domestic and public career of Sir Edward Dering, already well known both as a parliamentary orator and an antiquary.

Parliamentary Debates in 1610. Edited from the Notes of a Member of the House of Commons. By SAMUEL RAWSON GARDINER, late Student of Christchurch. 1861. Pp. xx. 184.

The debates of 1610 have a peculiar importance. From them may be dated the commencement of the great struggle between the King and the House of Commons, especially upon the power of taxation. The printed records of this parliament have been hitherto very defective, for the Journals of the House of Commons for the winter session of this year have not been preserved; but from various quarters Mr. Gardiner has collected a large amount of information both as to the proceedings and the debates.

Lists of Foreign Protestants, and Aliens, resident in England 1618-1688. From Returns in the State Paper Office. Edited by WM. DURRANT COOPER, F.S.A., Corresponding Member of the Massachusetts Historical Society. 1862. Pp. xxxii. 119.

These lists belong partly to the reign of James I. and partly to that of Charles II. In his introduction the Editor has brought together several other important documents connected with the history of the refugees, their reception, and the manufactures which they contributed to establish in various parts of the country. Lists of those families of foreign extraction that appear in the Visitations of London made in the years 1634, 1664, and 1687, are contributed by Mr. King, York herald; and the Editor has added, from various quarters, notices of such families as are still flourishing in this country in positions of greater or less distinction.*

Wills from Doctors' Commons. A Selection of the Wills of Eminent Persons proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 1495-1695. Edited by JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS and JOHN BRUCE. 1863. Pp. viii. 175.

The introduction to this volume (written by Mr. Bruce) celebrates the triumph of the Camden Society, after several years of persevering effort, (for the particulars of which some of its previous Annual Reports may be consulted,) in obtaining free literary access to the ancient Wills in Doctors' Commons (to the limit of the year 1700) on the same footing as in the Public Record Office. With the view of exemplifying the great advantages which history and biography were sure to derive from this important boon, Mr. Bruce invited the co-operation of the writer of these pages to make a selection from the early register-books. It was intentionally confined within moderate limits, and the conditions by which the choice of the Editors was guided were, first, that the wills copied should not have been previously published, and, secondly, that they should belong to as wide and varied a range of distinguished personages as possible.

The collection comprises two-and-thirty wills. Four are of members of English royalty, Cecily Duchess of York the mother of Edward the Fourth, Elizabeth Queen of Bohemia the daughter of James the First, her son Prince Rupert, and her niece Mary Princess of Orange. Three are of illustrious ladies, Dame Maude Parr the mother of Henry the Eighth's wife Katharine, Elizabeth Duchess of Norfolk the mother of the poet Surrey, and Frances Duchess of Suffolk the mother of Lady Jane Grey. Three are of famous prelates, Archbishop Warham, Cardinal Pole, and Bishop Gardiner; and four of eminent divines, Casaubon, Brevint, Vossius, and Baxter. Two are of royal favourites, Charles Brandon Duke of Suffolk, and George Villiers Duke of Buckingham; one is of an Elizabethan statesman, Sir Francis Walsingham, and three are of Commonwealth heroes, Hampden, Lenthall, and Prynne; four are of poets, Davies of Hereford, Sir John Denham, and the Earls of Rochester and Roscommon, and two of artists, Isaac Oliver and Sir Peter Lely; one is of Henry Purcell the musician, and another of William Lilly the astrologer; while among the rest are the wills of men as notable as Sir Thomas Gresham, Sir Francis Drake, and Sir Hugh Myddelton, and that of Bishop Cartwright, whose Diary was printed for the Camden Society in 1843 (No. XXII.) At the end are appended some notes of Administrations, in cases where no will exists, contributed by the late Mr. Clarence Hopper, by whom the contents of the volume were chiefly transcribed.

This volume, besides a variety of documents relating to the Trevelyan family and others in the West of England, contains, in pp. 13—38, further extracts from the Account-book of Sir William Cavendish, as Treasurer of the Chamber to Edward VI. The Life of Marmaduke Rawdon of York, or Marmaduke Rawdon the second of that name. Now first printed from the original MS. in the possession of Robert Cooke, Esq. F.R.G.S. Edited by ROBERT DAVIES, Esq., F.S.A. 1863. Pp. xlii. 204.

One of the most readable and entertaining books of the whole series, and illustrated by the Editor with many valuable notes. Marmaduke Rawdon was a great traveller, and a very gallant admirer of young ladies of beauty and talents. This book describes his travels not only in Europe and America but also in various parts of his native country, and his details of English travelling in the seventeenth century are very amusing. His Life appears to have been compiled from his own journals and papers by one of his family or intimate friends. It relates his whole career, from his birth in 1610 to his death in 1669.

Letters of Queen Margaret of Anjou and Bishop Beckington and others. Written in the reigns of Henry V. and Henry VI. From a MS. found at Emral in Flintshire. Edited by CECIL MONRO, Esq. 1863. Pp. xxi. 177.

These letters are preserved in a contemporary volume of copies, which was found in the year 1861, at Emral, the ancient seat of the Puleston family, in Flintshire. They have not the interest of the Paston Letters, being of a more formal and official character, but are remarkable for their early date and variety of subject, and are very carefully edited and illustrated by Mr. Monro.

THE CAMDEN MISCELLANY. Volume the Fifth.

This Volume contains :—

- I. Five Letters of King Charles II. Communicated to the Camden Miscellany by the Most Honourable the MARQUIS OF BRISTOL, President of the Camden Society. 1864. Pp. 16.

These letters were all written during the King's exile in Flanders; the first is addressed to his mother Queen Henrietta-Maria, and the others to Lord Jermyn, afterwards Earl of St. Alban's, a collateral ancestor of the Marquis of Bristol.

- II. Letter of the Council to Sir Thomas Lake, relating to the Proceedings of Sir Edward Coke at Oatlands (four pages). And

- III. Documents relating to Sir Walter Raleigh's last Voyage (seven pages). Communicated to the Camden Miscellany by SAMUEL RAWSON GARDINER, Esq.

These documents are from the Council Register and the Lansdowne MSS.

- IV. A Catalogue of Early English Miscellanies formerly in the Harleian Library. Edited by W. CAREW HAZLITT, Esq. 1862. Pp. 34.

Compiled from Osborne's Catalogue of the Harleian Library, and arranged in alphabetical order. The works thus described are "the rarest and most curious publications in early English poetry, typography, and the drama."

V. Letters selected from the collection of Autographs in the possession of WILLIAM TITE, Esq., M.P., V.P.S.A. 1864. Pp. 27.

This selection consists of letters of King Charles I., Oliver Cromwell, Robert Blake, George Monck, Charles II. and Nell Gwynne. They are illustrated with an interesting running commentary by the late Mr. Bruce.

VI. Sir Francis Drake's Memorable Service done against the Spaniards in 1587. Written by ROBERT LENG, Gentleman, one of his co-adventurers and fellow-soldiers. Now first edited, from the original MS. in the British Museum, together with an Appendix of illustrative papers, by CLARENCE HOPPER. 1863. Pp. 54.

A faithful and interesting narrative by one of Drake's companions, corroborated and illustrated by a copious body of contemporary documents collected by Mr. Hopper from a variety of sources. Drake's achievements in his voyage of 1587, when Spain was preparing her long-threatened Armada, are unparalleled in the annals of naval warfare; yet their details were previously less known than those of his other expeditions. His capture at this time of the great carrack the San Philippe, off the Azores, led to the establishment of the East India Company and so to the British empire in India.

VII. Inquiry into the Genuineness of a Letter dated February 3rd, 1613, and signed "Mary Magdaline Davers." 1864. Pp. 30.

This letter was communicated to the Society in a supposed transcript written on paper bearing the date of 1795 in the watermark. It proved to be a plausible forgery: but Mr. Bruce, in pursuing his examination into its statements, collected so many minute facts regarding the domestic history of its supposed date, that it was thought desirable to preserve these results of his investigation. It is a parallel, on a smaller matter, to his crucial examination of the Paston Letters, but which terminated otherwise in the satisfactory result of their complete vindication: see the forty-first volume of Archæologia.

Promptorium Parvulorum sive Clericorum, Dictionarius Anglo-Latinus Princeps, auctore fratre GALFRIDO GRAMMATICO dicto, ex ordine Fratrum Predicatorum, Northfolciensi, circa A.D. M.CCCC.XL. Olim ex officina Pynsoniana editum, nunc ab integro, commentariolis subjectis, ad fidem codicum recensuit ALBERTUS WAY, A.M. Londini: sumptibus Societatis Camdenensis. M.DCCC.LXV. Pp. lxxxvii. 439—563.

The third and concluding portion of the Promptorium Parvulorum, of which the two former parts have been described in p. 20 of this Catalogue. The above title-page (somewhat modified, it will be found, from that first given,) is intended for the entire work: of which the Society has published copies bound in a single volume. (price 21s.)

The preface discusses these special subjects: 1. The author of the Promptorium, Galfridus Grammaticus, a native of Norfolk, and a Black Friar of Lynn, with such traces as have been found of his history and literary labours; 2. The sources from which his Latinity was derived; 3. The MSS. of the work, and also the printed copies which were available in the preparation of this edition. It further gives an elaborate account of nearly forty works, ancient and modern, on the lexicography of the English language (to which there is attached an index). Appended to the volume is an orthographic index to the Promptorium, and also an index of the principal subjects elucidated in Mr. Way's valuable archaeological notes.

Letters and other Documents illustrating the Relations between England and Germany at the commencement of the Thirty Years' War. From the outbreak of the Revolution in Bohemia to the Election of the Emperor Ferdinand II. Edited by SAMUEL RAWSON GARDINER, late Student of Christchurch. 1865. Pp. xl. 212.

"It is seldom that events upon the Continent have affected the course of English history so deeply as the struggle between the two religious parties in Germany which lit up the flames of the Thirty Years' War. The second growth of Puritanism, and the anti-monarchical feeling which reached its culminating point in the reign of Charles I., may be directly traced to the dissatisfaction of the nation* with the desertion by James I. of his Protestant allies." (Preface.) The volume contains ninety-five letters written in 1618 and 1619, and a copious historical introduction is prefixed. The details of James's foreign diplomacy are in this work set forth more thoroughly than ever before. The sequel will be found under No. XCVIII.

Registrum sive Liber Irrotularius et Consuetudinaris Prioratus Beatæ Mariæ Wigorniensis; with an Introduction, Notes, and Illustrations, by WILLIAM HALE HALE, M.A., Archdeacon of London. 1865. Pp. cxxviii. 200.

The larger portion of this volume consists of a rental of the possessions of the monastic church of Worcester in the middle of the thirteenth century; and it was undertaken by the Editor to illustrate further the same subjects which were developed in his Domesday of St. Paul's (No. LXIX.) But the volume contains also documents of many kinds: both of a public nature, such as the Magna Charta and other great legislative acts; royal, episcopal, and private charters; and ecclesiastical forms and precedents. The MS. of this Registrum is now again in the possession of the Dean and Chapter of Worcester, after having strayed from their custody; its binding and Elenchus Contentorum are conjectured to be Italian, and it was once E MSS. Thomas Astle.

XCII.

Pope Alexander the Seventh and the College of Cardinals. By John Bargrave, D.D., Canon of Canterbury [1662—1680]. With a Catalogue of Dr. Bargrave's Museum. Edited by JAMES CRAIGIE ROBERTSON, M.A. Canon of Canterbury. 1867. Pp. xxviii. 144.

Dr. Bargrave's compilation was not intended for publication, but merely as an accompaniment to a set of engraved portraits of the Pope and Cardinals which he had purchased at Rome. It is derived principally from several contemporary Italian works, interspersed with Dr. Bargrave's own observations made in Italy. The Italian works were evidently very popular, under the titles of La Giusta Statera de' Porporati (1650), Il Nepotismo di Roma (1667), and Il Cardinalismo di Santa Chiesa (1668). There were several English publications founded on the same materials: The Scarlet Gown; or, the History of all the present Cardinals of Rome (1653); Rome Exactly Described (1664); and Il Nepotismo di Roma; or, the History of the Pope's Nephews (1669); and an English translation of Il Cardinalismo (1670).

The Catalogue of Dr. Bargrave's Museum, which he left to the library of Christchurch, Canterbury, is from the original there preserved.

As a frontispiece to this volume is prefixed a photographic facsimile of Dr. Bargrave's drawing of Queen Christina of Sweden walking on a pilgrimage to Rome in 1655: which was formerly badly engraved in Archdeacon Todd's edition of Milton.

Accounts and Papers relating to Mary Queen of Scots. Edited by ALLAN J. CROSBY, Esq., and JOHN BRUCE, Esq. 1867. Pp. xxiii. 134. (A Fac-simile of Standard, Banners, and other Funeral Atchievements at Peterborough.)

This volume is formed of two portions: the first, edited by Mr. Crosby, consists of: 1. Charges of the Diets of the Ladye Mary, late Queen of Scottes, at Tutbury, Chartley, and Fotheringhay, during the last two years of the Queen's captivity; 2. Charges of the Funeral at Peterborough; 3. The Order and Manner of the Funeral; 4. Charges of Diet for the Funeral.

The second portion, edited by Mr. Bruce, is "A Justification of Queen Elizabeth in relation to the Affairs of Mary Queen of Scots." It belongs to a class of publications of which there were many examples at that period;—defences, published by authority, of the course of action adopted by the government on the occurrence of some important political crisis: several of which, that were printed and published forthwith, are enumerated by Mr. Bruce. Of the present composition there were probably many copies circulated in manuscript: it is printed from one in the library of Sir Thomas E. Winnington, Bart., collated with others in the Cottonian and Harleian collections.

XCIV. & XCVII.

History from Marble. Compiled in the reign of Charles II. by THOMAS DINGLEY, Gent. Printed in Photolithography by Vincent Brooks, from the original in the possession of Sir Thomas E. Winnington, Bart. With an Introduction and Descriptive Table of Contents by JOHN GOUGH NICHOLS, F.S.A. Volume I. 1867. Volume II. 1868. Pp. 196, ccccxvii.

The title given to this book by its author implies that according to his original conception its contents were to be chiefly derived from sepulchral and other monuments: but these are interspersed with many other matters that arrested his attention, as coins and antiquities of all sorts, seals, documents, and occasional pieces of poetry, the apothegms of King James I., &c. &c. There are several views of churches, manor houses, and other buildings; and in others of his manuscript volumes Dingley has referred to the present as his "English Journall" and "my English Itinerary." Prefixed to it is an alphabet of armorial bearings. Thomas Dingley's collections have remained for nearly two centuries in MS.; but his Irish Journal has now been published by the Irish Archaeological Society, and his Tour through Wales (Notitia Cambro Britannica, 1684) has been privately printed by His Grace the Duke of Beaufort.

The present work is a specimen of the new art of Photolithography, rendering the whole of the drawings and penmanship of the original in perfect fac-simile, and is by far the most costly of all the works of the Camden Society.

Its most curious portions relate to Bath, Oxford, Wiltshire, and Herefordshire. At Hereford the author had a fellow-worker in Mr. Theophilus Alys, attorney at-law in that city: and another manuscript volume in which they were jointly concerned appeared in 1864 in the catalogue of a London bookseller, but has since escaped all inquiry. The pedigree of Alys's family has been lately published in the Herald and Genealogist, 1870, vol. vi. p. 223.

MANIPULUS VOCABULORUM. A Dictionary of English and Latin Words, arranged in the alphabetical order of the last syllables, by PETER LEVINS. First printed A.D. 1570: now re-edited, with a Preface and alphabetical Index, by HENRY B. WHEATLEY. 1867. Pp. xv. 370.

Attention was called to this Dictionary by Mr. Way in his Preface to the Promptorium Parrvulorum, p. lxx.; and, the original being exceedingly scarce, the present edition was printed at the joint expense of the Early English Text Society, the Camden Society, and the Philological Society. Its peculiarities and value are well explained in Mr. Wheatley's prefatory remarks.

Journal of a Voyage into the Mediterranean by SIR KENELM DIGBY, A.D. 1628. Edited, from the original autograph manuscript in the possession of William Watkin E. Wynne, Esq., by JOHN BRUCE, Esq., F.S.A. 1868. Pp. xxviii. 106.

Mr. Bruce has prefixed a very interesting inquiry into the previous stages of Sir Kenelm Digby's career. "This Journal" (he remarks) "must lead to a rectification of many errors respecting Sir Kenelm's Expedition, and will probably conduce some day to the writing of a complete Life of its singular and in many respects extraordinary author."

Letters and other Documents illustrating the relations between England and Germany at the commencement of the Thirty Years' War. Second series. From the election of the Emperor Ferdinand II. to the close of the Conferences at Mühlhausen. Edited by SAMUEL RAWSON GARDINER. 1868. Pp. xi. 194.

See No. XC. This volume contains 102 letters written in the years 1619 and 1620, from the originals in the State Paper Office and British Museum.

XCIX.

Diary of John Manningham, of the Middle Temple, and of Bradbourne, Kent, Barrister-at-law, 1602—1603. Edited from the original manuscript by JOHN BRUCE, Esq., and presented to the Camden Society by WILLIAM TITE, Esq., M.P., F.R.S., F.S.A., President of the Society. 1868. Pp. xx. 188.

This Diary, preserved among the Harleian MSS., was made known by extracts given by Mr. J. Payne Collier in his History of the Stage and by Mr. Joseph Hunter in his Illustrations of Shakespeare. John Manningham was a great attendant upon plays and a great attendant upon sermons, of which he gives long reports. Besides some curious particulars of the death of Queen Elizabeth,* the accession of James I., and other events of an historical character, there are scattered through this Diary a multitude of notices of contemporary persons of eminence, particularly the leading members of the legal profession.

This volume, printed for the Camden Society at the expense of Sir William Tite the present President, is remarkable as the only book which the members have hitherto had presented to them.

* A photographic fac-simile of a page at this place appears in the frontispiece.

JOHN BRUCE, Esq., F.S.A., Director of the Camden Society. 1869. Pp. xli. 82.

This volume contains the first-fruits of the valuable historical discoveries made by our late indefatigable Director on his visit to Crowcombe Court in Somersetshire, the particulars of which are detailed in the Report made by the Council to the Society in 1869, and in the Preface to this volume. It is illustrated by a narrative, written by Mr. Bruce in his usual felicitous style, regarding a period of English history with which he was especially conversant.

El hecho de los Tratados del Matrimonio pretendido por el Principe de Gales con la serenissima Infante de España Maria, tomado desde sus principios para maior demostracion de la verdad, y ajustado con los papeles originales desde consta por el maestro F. Francisco de Jesus, predicador del Rey nuestro señor. Narrative of the Spanish Marriage Treaty, edited and translated by SAMUEL RAWSON GARDINER. 1869. Pp. x. 349.

This narrative has never been before printed, though it is not unfrequently met with in MS. in Spanish libraries. It is now taken from a copy in the British Museum. It extends in point of time from the year 1604 to 1624. By the test of documents found at Simancas and elsewhere, it appears to be a thoroughly trustworthy representation of the facts as they would naturally appear to a Spanish catholic, and the writer's abstracts of documents prove to be faithful wherever the originals are preserved. Mr. Gardiner is the author of "Prince Charles and the Spanish Marriage: 1617-1623. A Chapter of English History, founded principally upon unpublished Documents in this country, and the Archives of Simancas, Venice, and Brussels. 1869." Two vols. 8vo.

Churchwardens' Accounts of the Town of Ludlow, in Shropshire, from 1540 to the end of the reign of Queen Elizabeth. Edited, from the original manuscript, by THOMAS WRIGHT, M.A., F.S.A., Hon. M.R.S.L., &c., Corresponding Member of the Imperial Institute of France (Académie des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres). 1869. Pp. vii. 184.

The MS. is preserved among the town archives. The Editor has been long conversant with the history of this his native place, and has produced other works regarding it, of which the most complete is his History of Ludlow. 1852. 8vo.

Notes of the Debates in the House of Lords, officially taken by HENRY ELSING, Clerk of the Parliaments, A.D. 1621. Edited, from the original MS. in the possession of Lieutenant-Colonel Carew, by SAMUEL RAWSON GARDINER, Esq. 1870. Pp. ix. 158.

These are the first reports of old debates in the House of Peers that have been published. The Commons' Journals, at the same period, are filled with reports of their speeches: but it is now made known, for the first time, that any notes were made of those in the House of Lords. Taken from the mouths of the speakers, by their own officer, they give an insight into the state of parties, and the characters of the leading members of the Upper House, which we never had before. The note-books preserved are the second and last for the Session, the first and third not having been found. Free access to the MSS. remaining at the House of Lords has enabled the Editor to append some valuable illustrative documents.

CIV.

The CAMDEN MISCELLANY. Volume the Sixth. 1871.

This Volume contains,—

- I. Life of Mr. William Whittingham, Dean of Durham, from a MS. in Antony Wood's Collection, Bodleian Library. With an Appendix of Original Documents from the Record Office. Edited by MARY ANNE EVERETT GREEN. 1870. Pp. iv. 48.

Whittingham was the Puritanical Dean of Durham in the reign of Elizabeth. The MS. is in Antony Wood's autograph, but copied from one now unknown, which was evidently written, very shortly after the accession of James I., by some under-secretary of state or other person who had access to state papers.

- II. The Earl of Bristol's Defence of his Negotiations in Spain. Edited, from MSS. in the Bodleian Library and the Public Record Office, by SAMUEL RAWSON GARDINER. 1871. Pp. xxxix. 56.

In his answer to the Seventh Interrogatory, printed in Hardwicke's State Papers, i. 494, the Earl of Bristol refers to "a paper apart," in which he promises to "set down the whole progress of the business from the year 1611 unto this present time:" this is the paper now printed from the Tanner MSS. Other papers are added, both from the State Paper Office and from Mr. Digby's archives at Sherborne Castle, with the object of illustrating the treatment which the Earl of Bristol received from Charles I. and the Duke of Buckingham after his return from Spain.

III. Journal of Sir Francis Walsingham from Dec. 1570 to April 1583. Edited, from the original MS. in the possession of Lieutenant-Colonel Carew, by CHARLES TRICE MARTIN, B.A. 1870. Pp. iv. 104.

This journal consists of brief notes of Walsingham's movements, and occasionally of other events of interest; with memoranda for each day of all letters sent and received.

CV.

Trevelyan Papers. Part III. Edited by SIR WALTER and SIR CHARLES TREVELYAN. 1871. Pp. lv. 342.

This volume is of more readable material, and of more varied interest, than Parts I. and II. of the same series. It consists almost entirely of family and news letters, some of the more important features of which are set forth and discussed by the Editors in their Introduction. Amongst the letters, which extend over the last years of the sixteenth and the first half of the seventeenth century, may be noted some from Lord Clichester, the able Lord Deputy of Ireland at the time of the Plantation of Ulster.
